Administration Plans To Punish Farm Bloc

CCC DEATH TO BE PERMITTED BY PARTY HEADS

Bitter Fight On Food Subsidies Said To Prompt Penalty

CORPORATION END NEAR

Some Senators Voice Fear Of Quick Demoralization Of Ag Production

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—The administration was reported today to punish the congressional farm bloc for its bitter fight on consumers' food subsidies by permitting the huge Commodity Credit Corporation to die, at least temporarily.

Life of the corporation, which is used to finance support payments to keep up prices of some farm products, to make loans to support prices and for other activities in which the farmer is vitally interested, expires on February 17 unless congress acts.

The bill to continue its life carries a "rider" banning rollback and consumers' food subsidies desired by the administration. With the senate now engaged in a fight over soldier voting, it appears possible that the anti-subsidy battle cannot be settled by February 17.

Wagner Backs Bill

"The bill ought to be put through, of course," said Sen. Wagner (D-N.Y.), "but I am not worried over the prospect of the Commodity Credit Corporation not being continued. They can get along for several weeks. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has funds."

Some senators declared however, that food production would be demoralized by even temporary suspension of the agency. Delay in settling the subsidy issue, they said, has delayed planning for food production.

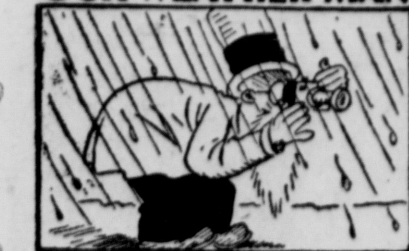

Sen. Danaher (R-Conn.), quoted reports that the delay in a subsidy decision will force a reduction in planting of crops for canning, while Sen. Wherry (R-Nebr.), said (Continued on Page Two)

NAZI CURFEW COVERS TANK ACTION IN ROME

LONDON, Feb. 3—The establishment by Nazi occupation forces of a curfew in Rome involves another story of German treachery, ruthless and broken promises, a dispatch from Chianiso, on the Italo-Swiss frontier, said today.

One reason for the curfew, the dispatch to the Daily Express acknowledged, was the outbreak of some rioting but the main purpose was to mask German tank movements through the city despite the fact that the Nazis proclaim they regard Rome as an "open" city.

Nimitz Appointment Indicates Optimism On Marshall Victory

ABOARD HEADQUARTERS FLAGSHIP, MARSHALL ISLANDS, Feb. 3—The highly optimistic official view of the Marshall islands invasion was pointed up today by the announcement that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz will be military governor of the strategic Japanese territory.

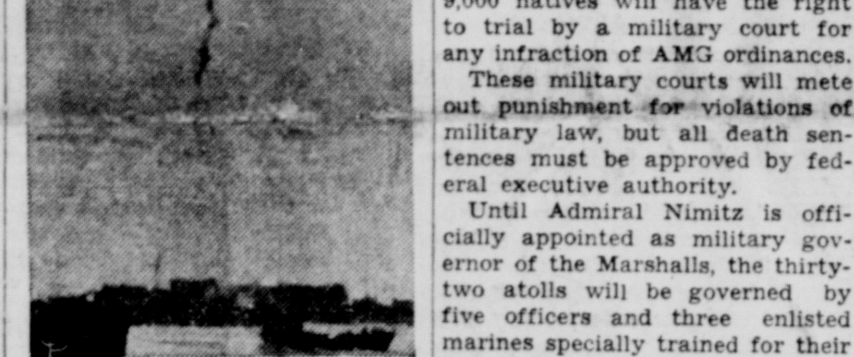

Planned appointment of the commander of the Pacific fleet to administer the first territory wrested from the Japanese empire was announced on the heels of the communique which detailed the first military successes in the Marshalls, presaging the capture of the entire group.

Nimitz's proposed appointment marks the formation of the first American military government in the Pacific theatre of war. It also demonstrates the official certainty of the success of the operation to take the entire Marshall group.

Plans for military government of captured Jap territory were made long before the mighty land and sea force began its attack on the Marshalls. Official confidence in the success of the attack on the Marshalls was so great that the complete military government setup, even down to the printing of Japanese-English posters instructing natives in AMG regulations, was ready before the assault.

A study of the AMG regulations reveals a sharp contrast with the brutal treatment of Marshall island natives under Jap mandate. Although a sundown curfew will be enforced, the estimated 9,000 natives will have the right to trial by a military court for any infraction of AMG ordinances.

These military courts will mete out punishment for violations of military law, but all death sentences must be approved by federal executive authority. Until Admiral Nimitz is officially appointed as military governor of the Marshalls, the thirty-two atolls will be governed by five officers and three enlisted marines specially trained for their job at the government school in Charlottesville, Va.

U. S. LIBERATOR REFUSES TO QUIT

Big Bomber Soars For 90 Minutes After Crew Abandons Ship

LONDON, Feb. 3—Two fantastic stories concerning American Liberator bombers, one of which had been shot down by the British after its crew bailed out, became known today.

The second Liberator, fully loaded with bombs, fell into a perilous dive of 5,000 feet but was miraculously brought back under control and continued on a scheduled mission.

The story about how two British Spitfire pilots shot down the first Liberator, also loaded with bombs, into the North sea was told by the Daily Express. This four-motored B-24 was abandoned by its American crew after trouble developed in three engines while the craft was enroute to a recent attack on northern France.

"It looked as if the vibration would tear the ship apart so we had to go over the side," Pilot First Lieut. Richard J. Pettie, of Los Angeles was quoted as saying.

After the crew members had parachuted down to the sea the Liberator flew around by itself off the English coast. Ninety minutes later Spitfires patrolling the area were ordered to shoot it down. They gave the Liberator a full burst of cannon shells and watched the bomb-laden craft dive into the sea.

"Heaven Can Wait" was the name of the other Liberator which got into trouble but was redeemed. Piloted by Lieut. Herman C. Boles, of Huntington Beach, Cal., this craft fully loaded with bombs was enroute to France Tuesday (Continued on Page Two)

LOCAL WORKER HURT IN BLAST AT LOCKBOURNE

Robert Aldenderfer of Watt street died this afternoon in the hospital at Lockbourne army air base. His body was taken to the Crites and Van Cleave funeral home, Amanda, pending funeral arrangements.

Robert M. Aldenderfer, 29, of Watt street, remains in critical condition in the hospital at Lockbourne army air base after being burned Wednesday afternoon when a stove in a temporary shed at the base blew up igniting the gasoline-soaked clothing of Aldenderfer and two other Lockbourne civilian employees.

Aldenderfer, whose wife is at his bedside, is reported to be in an oxygen tent. George W. Hoffman, 31, of Carroll, O., died of his burns shortly after and Willoughby E. McClure, 48, Columbus, died early Thursday.

Mrs. Aldenderfer, who had applied for work at Lockbourne only last week end, was called to the base Wednesday afternoon, returned home during the night and was summoned back to the base Thursday morning. The clothing of the three men was drenched with gasoline when a hose filling a gasoline truck from a tank car apparently broke. The trio went to the stove-heated shack to remove the clothing, the explosion taking place when Hoffman moved too close to the stove. Aldenderfer has been working at Lockbourne for some time. He is a native of Stoutsville.

ROAR OF BATTLE GROWS LOUDER IN ETHERAL CITY

LONDON, Feb. 3—The roar of heavy guns of the Allied Fifth Army is growing louder and louder in Rome, the German Overseas News agency reported today. "One cannot escape the roar of German and Allied guns even by staying indoors," said the broadcast dispatch.

MUTUAL FEAR PROMPTS RUSS, BRITISH MOVES

High International Power Politics May Vitalize Affect World Destiny

MOSCOW WARNS LONDON

Reds Ready For Expansion If England Perfects Power Bloc

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Soviet Russia and Great Britain are believed to be engaged in a momentous diplomatic game of high international power politics which may vitally affect the future destiny of the world.

Authoritative diplomatic sources in Washington are convinced Moscow's move giving the 16 Soviet republics ostensible freedom of action in foreign affairs is a direct result of Great Britain's attempt to revive the balance of power system in the postwar world.

Moscow is known to be deeply concerned by the recent trend in British thought as outlined by South African Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts and British Ambassador Lord Halifax. Smuts urged a closer British alliance with the smaller western European democracies while Lord Halifax called for a strengthening of Britain's ties with the dominions.

Fearful of Russia

It has been generally accepted that this move by Britain to strengthen its position in world affairs has been prompted by fear of Russian postwar domination of Europe. Smuts referred to Russia as the "Colossus of Europe."

Moscow's new move is seen as a warning to the British that if they organize an anti-Russian balance of power bloc, Russia will expand the Soviet union into a Soviet commonwealth of nations.

Each of the Soviet republics already enjoys a considerable measure of cultural freedom. By giving them the right to maintain their own military formations and seek separate diplomatic representation abroad, Moscow is seen opening the door for the inclusion of the Soviet union of other outside states, such as the Balkan and eastern European nations.

Strongest Power

With Russia expected to emerge from this war as the strongest power in Europe, it is considered far from inconceivable that Moscow could persuade a weak Poland, Czechoslovakia or Austria to join, in their own interests, the Soviet commonwealth of nations. Nor is the possibility overlooked that Russia might even bring into the Soviet commonwealth partitioned (Continued on Page Two)

LOCAL FIGHTERS MAY GET LEAVE FROM JAP WAR

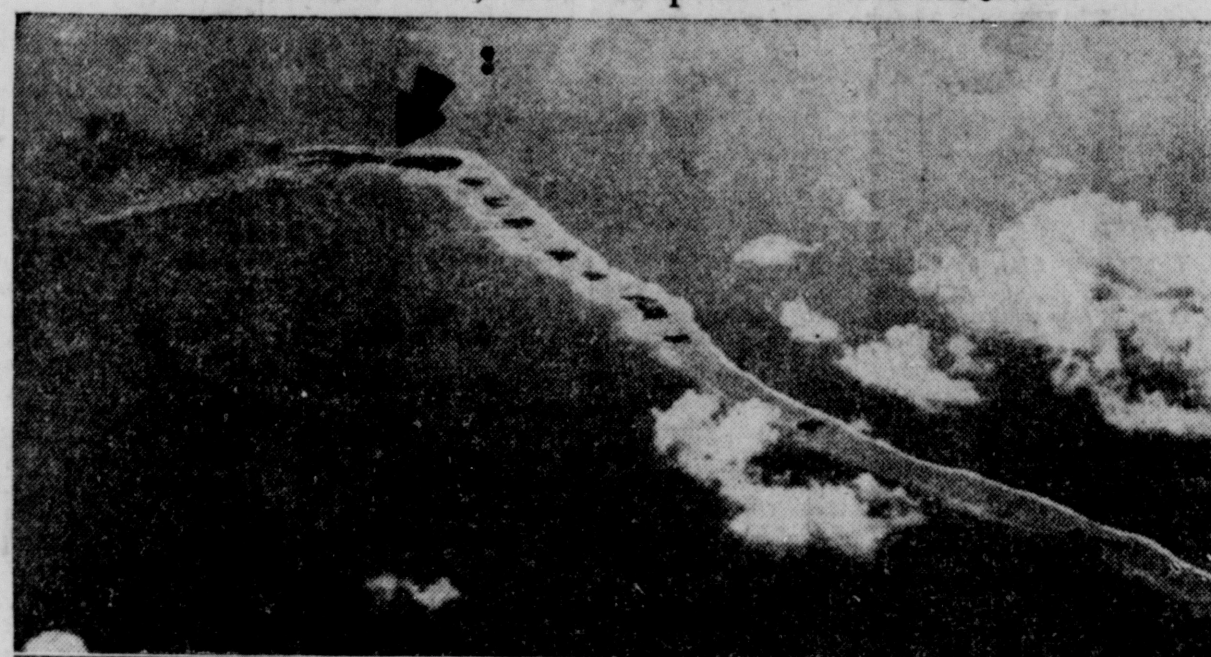

Americans who have been serving in the Pacific theatre of war for the last two years will be granted army rotation plan furloughs as soon as the War department can take the necessary steps to be taken.

The movement was announced by Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commanding general of the U. S. army forces in the South Pacific. The number of men brought home has been limited by lack of transportation, but will be increased as transports become available, Harmon said.

General Harmon declared that to date troops brought home have been limited to incapacitated men and to fliers who have finished their allotted missions.

Ohio's 37th division, which includes many Circleville and Pickaway county men, has been in the Pacific a long while although none of the 37th has been there 24 months. Most 37th division units will have been in the Pacific two years next June, although some troops had been assigned to the Fijis, New Caledonia and Australia before that time.

It is pictured, top, indicated by arrow. Below are three of the invasion officers. Maj. Gen. H. M. Smith of the Marines commands all assault troops. Rear Admiral M. H. SOLDIER VOTE ACTION AT HAND

Critical Test Point Marked By Senate Move To Compromise On Issue

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Congress reached the "stop talking, start voting" stage today on the bitterly-contested soldier vote issue.

The critical test point between the opposing state and federal ballot supporters was marked by a senate move to compromise the Green-Lucas federal vote proposal. But in the house, where actual voting was to begin on amendments to the Rankin "states rights bill, Republican leaders flatly predicted their lines would "hold fast" against any compromise involving a federal ballot.

"We're not giving an inch," declared one prominent Republican active in the floor fight against the Worley bill providing both state and federal voting machinery for members of the armed forces. "The federal 'short' ballot is unconstitutional and the house bill will not accept it."

HALF MILLION WORKERS NEEDED BY U. S. CANNERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower Commission announced today that the WMC in cooperation with the canning industry plans to recruit 500,000 workers this year to make sure that all available food is processed for military and civilian use.

McNutt said goals which have been fixed for canned fruits and vegetables will make it necessary to recruit half a million workers, full and part-time, at the height of the food processing season.

"We are submitting our recruiting plans to canners and to our own personnel of the WMC United States unemployment service in 25 states," McNutt said. "We will be ready to supply workers when the earliest food processing begins in the Spring."

FIGHT LEADERS PLAN REPORT ON WAR'S PROGRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—A report on the war will be given the nation by its high military and naval leaders tonight at the American Legion dinner tendered by National Commander Warren H. Atherton to Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of Navy Knox and members of congress.

Among those speaking at the dinner will be Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet, Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ralph A. Bard and Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, head of the War Shipping administration and the Maritime Commission.

Atherton will talk on the need for a program for veterans of World War II, including expanded hospital facilities for care of the disabled, vocational training and education opportunities.

JAPS UNABLE TO EXPLAIN YANK VICTORY

LONDON, Feb. 3—The Japanese, stunned by the powerful assault of American forces in the Marshall islands, groped today for an explanation of how the Yanks were able to sweep them back on their heels so swiftly.

Rear Admiral Tanetsuga Sosa, failing to explain that the Nips had been fortifying the Marshalls for 20 years, said in a broadcast that Japan was handicapped by the factor of distance.

Then he went on to say that the Nips have no alternative but to wait patiently until the American forces get themselves entangled in an offensive net.

"Once entangled," boasted the admiral, "it will be well nigh impossible for them to face our counter-attack."

QUAKE KILLS 995

ANKARA, Feb. 3—Turkish authorities announced today that 995 persons were killed and 984 were injured in the devastating earthquake which shook all Turkey last Tuesday. A total of 1,500 houses was destroyed and 61 damaged, according to reports so far.

BOND SALES AT $287,219 TOTAL

981 Subscriptions To War Effort Reported By Campaign Chairman

Pickaway county's Fourth War Loan campaign fund went above the $300,000 mark Thursday with Clark Will, drive chairman, announcing that 981 subscriptions had been taken for $287,219.50, and at the same time disclosed that the Pennsylvania Railroad and the state treasurer's office had aided the campaign with purchases of bonds credited to this county. These purchases send the total over $300,000.

Mr. Will issued a new appeal to his solicitors urging them to contact everyone in their areas. Several reports have been received from potential buyers that they have not yet been contacted. The drive chief also urged persons who intend to buy bonds to contact their banks if they have not been solicited. No matter who sells the bonds, the War Loan committee wants persons wishing to buy (Continued on Page Two)

$2,000,000 BLAZE IN WAR FACTORY PROBED BY F. B. I.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 3—An investigation was begun today to determine the cause of a fire that swept through a downtown Portland plant of the Iron Fireman Manufacturing Company, doing damage estimated at $2,000,000.

Besides gutting buildings and machinery, the flames destroyed 24 engines for Liberty freighters, in various stages of construction. When completed, the engines are valued at nearly $100,000 each.

At the request of the FBI, a police guard was placed over the building in which the flames originated.

Several tanks of acetylene exploded in the flames, but a building containing most of the plant's supply was saved.

The plant employed about 1200 persons.

Americans Score Important Gains In Marshalls And On Italian Front

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson declared today that the American invasion of the Marshalls has opened a breach in Japan's defenses through which Allied forces will eventually pour into the Philippines and Tokyo. The offensive in the Marshalls is "progressing favorably," Patterson asserted.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—The navy announced today that Raymond Clapper, newspaper columnist, was killed in an airplane crash while covering the invasion of the Marshall islands. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, notified the navy of Clapper's death. Nimitz said the accident occurred when the plane in which Clapper was flying collided with another plane in mid-air and fell into a lagoon. There were no survivors, the navy announced.

By International News Service
Faced by an armada of more than 1,100 American heavy bombers and fighters which gutted the big Nazi naval base at Wilhelmshaven, mighty fleets of Allied warplanes hammered at continental Europe today in a fresh "round-the-clock sky offensive."

The giant four-motored raiders of the Eighth American Air force and their long-range fighter escort droned high over the English coast early in the morning, only a short time after RAF Mosquito bombers had raked objectives in the western reaches of the Reich. Other formations of Allied planes soon followed, headed for the French coast.

The full-scale daylight assault on Wilhelmshaven, which entailed a round-trip flight of some 730 miles, was one of the heaviest ever made against any single target. The city often has been the objective of American bombardiers and on last November 3 was ripped in the heaviest daylight assault of the war up to that time.

1,000 Ton Raid

Today's attack was the eighth American assault of the war on Wilhelmshaven, which may well have been staggered by more than 1,000 tons of bombs in this attack.

Well-posted observers estimated that this weight of explosions may have been loosed, figuring on the basis that bombers might have (Continued on Page Two)

HUNS SINK SHIP AND NORWEGIANS GET YANK CRAFT

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—The crew of a Norwegian freighter which was sunk recently in the North Atlantic was outbound again today—intact from captain to mess-boy—sailing an American ship under their own flag, thanks to President Roosevelt's intercession in their behalf.

They invoked the President's aid following their rescue when their ship was sunk in a collision after being struck by a torpedo in mid-Atlantic. They didn't want to be separated, as are most rescued crews of torpedoes ships.

The response to their appeal to Roosevelt was quicker than the seamen expected. They were assigned by the Norwegian shipping and trade commission to the American freighter Alfe Lindeberg, named for a Norwegian merchant marine officer executed by the Nazis in Norway.

The captain, Mons Augustad, before sailing sent a grateful message to Roosevelt thanking him for his assistance and concluding: "We are sailing with a full cargo of supplies for the Yankees. Long live Uncle Sam!"

made up half the full armada and carried at least two tons of explosives each.

Wilhelmshaven, the site of headquarters of the Germans' North Sea naval command, is situated on the northwest side of Jade bay. In addition, the Nazis have established a repair and fitting station for their submarine fleet at Wilhelmshaven.

Last night, an official air ministry communique revealed, speedy British Mosquito bombers attacked objectives in western Germany.
It was the second successive night the plywood craft were over their targets.

Other British planes sowed mines in enemy waters. All the RAF craft returned safely.

Gains On Ground

On the ground two important enemy-held strongpoints—half a world apart—were threatened today by American advances. In Italy, the Yanks who smashed the German Gustav line imperiled the Nazi bastion of Cassino, while other American doughboys bettered their positions on Kwajalein in the Marshall islands.

The break-through above Cassino on the central Italian battle-front was expected to precipitate against the expanding Allied bridgehead south of Rome. Indeed, the Nazis did strike strongly against the American and British amphibious forces but were repulsed, while Lieut. Gen. Mark W.
Clark's troops enlarged their area of control in this sector.

Simultaneously with official announcement of the gains below the Eternal City, Allied headquarters declared that on the main Fifth army front the fortified town of Cassino was seriously threatened.
Greatest peril to the German garrison was the advance by masses of American and French forces north of the town.

Some advanced Yank spearheads were reported within 500 yards of Cassino, while counter-attacks directed against the Fifth army flank were hurled backward.

On the northern Italian front where the Allies were trying to drive forward on sectors 15 and 25 miles below Rome, the Germans and Anglo-Americans both strengthened their forces.

Sharp fighting continued to center about Cisterna, 25 miles below the Eternal City, and around Campoleone, 10 miles farther north.

surge over both Italian battle areas, striking also at enemy communication lines throughout Italy and in the occupied Balkans.

Meanwhile, in the Central Pacific the Americans were firmly established on 12 islands of the strategic Marshall group. The fourth U. S. Marine division, untried less than a week ago, made its first victory a good one—being the first Allied force to wrest prewar Japanese territory from the enemy.

The leathernecks captured Roi Island with its airfield, largest in the Marshalls, and drove the Japs into a tiny pocket on nearby Namur. While the Marines were scoring these highly-important gains, the doughboys of the Seventh infantry division were advancing on Kwajalein Island, site of vital enemy naval installations.

All the islands which the Americans invaded are included in the Kwajalein atoll, largest in the archipelago. The Yanks went ashore under cover of the largest naval armada ever established, and with support of huge forces of carrier—and land-based aircraft.

Despite the large number of surface vessels risked in the operation, an official announcement revealed that none was lost.

Advance In Solomons
Further to the southwest, Gen.
Douglas MacArthur's forces scored additional gains against the Japs in the Solomons, on New Guinea and on New Britain. At least 34 more enemy planes were destroyed or damaged in another raid on much-battered Rabaul, and Allied ground forces pressed forward on Bougainville and in northeastern New Guinea.

The Russian war was marked by a continued Red army advance against the enemy's Estonian stronghold of Narva, six miles west of the Estonian frontier.
Three Soviet columns converged on the city, which was reported in Stockholm quarters to be under the siege guns of Gen. Leonid A.
Govorov's artillery.

The Nazis sought desperately to make a stand, bringing reinforcements from the Baltic seaport of Tallinn, but Russian Sturmdiver bombers and fighter planes hammered incessantly at the communications lines.

So serious did the Germans consider their positions in Estonia, that a general mobilization of the Estonian population was ordered.
Two small Nazi schooners were sent to the bottom of the Adriatic by United Nations coastal forces off the coast of Sliba Island.

when ice froze the controls and the ship went into a spin.

Frantic efforts to right the bomber at first were without effect. The air speed indicator hit 350 miles per hour.

Bolles ordered his crew to bail out but during the 5,000-foot drop the crew was thrown about so badly that it was impossible for any to leave the plane.

Bolles brought the craft out of its spin, crew and bombload intact. The plane, separated from its original formation, caught up with another formation and went in to bomb the target.

Airmen said after the incident that it was the first time they ever heard of men making such and living to tell about it.

SPOUSE SLAYER ADMITS CRIME AFTER 13 YEARS

CHICAGO, Feb. 3—Authorities investigated today the story of a 43-year-old woman who walked into a police station and confessed that 13 years ago she killed her husband by pushing him from a second story window.

"My conscience has been bothering me; I have a confession to make," Mrs. Pauline Kretschmer told Desk Sgt. Joseph Mooney.
Then she related that on August 3, 1931, she and her husband, Joseph Harbough, a chef, had a fight in their apartment. While he was standing in front of a window, she pushed him out, she told Sgt. Mooney. She said that when police arrived she told them her husband had committed suicide.

its bill may not come until Friday.
Fifteen senators—11 Democrats and four Republicans—joined in proposing the senate compromise which Rep. Worley (D) Tex., said was "fine, but already provided in my bill."

The senate offer first would permit state ballots from those states which comply with conditions set forth in the bill. In states not meeting these requirements
the federal ballot would apply.

The senate compromise conditions for use of state ballots are that the states must by June 1 provide: Use of ballots without personal registration, printing of ballots at least 45 days in advance of the election and a limitation on weight of ballots, with envelopes, to not more than 1.2 ounces.

A United States ballot commission would certify on or before July 1 which states have failed to comply. Servicemen and women from states not meeting these requirements would receive the ballot covering only federal offices.

Further changes in the Green-Lucas measure would require that soldiers desiring a federal ballot apply for it themselves, and that voters qualifications be determined "in accordance with state law."
It carries a congressional recommendation that the states themselves make provisions for absentee voting.

The state ballot bill of Rep.
Ranking (D) Miss., in substance recommends to the various states that they facilitate absentee soldier voting in either primary or general elections and calls on the armed services to cooperate in transporting state ballots.

As the house arrived at the amendment point in its deliberations, the senate agreed to limit debate to a 20 minute speech on the bill, or a 20 minute speech on any amendment.

High International Power Politics May Vitalize Affect World Destiny

states of Germany, such as Bavaria.

There have been persistent reports that the Allied plan for the military conquest of Germany calls for the temporary occupation of a third of German territory by the Soviet armies. It is recognized this might well enable the Russians to impress the Soviet-controlled Germans with the advantages of joining the Soviet commonwealth.

Under the Soviet constitution, each of the Soviet republics is supposed to be a completely autonomous and sovereign state. There is nothing to prevent a non-Russian state from joining the Soviet union, providing Moscow approves.

U. S. Gravely Concerned

Official Washington is not inclined to blame the Soviets entirely for reacting as they have to the British move. Both sides are believed to be prompted by a defensive complex.

Nevertheless, the present balance of power maneuvering by both Britain and Russia has the American government gravely concerned.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull's idea is that the future security of the world should be achieved through establishment of a general international organization rather than through any balance of power arrangements. He believes the latter system would, as it has in the past, lead to the division of the world into spheres of rival influence.

Official Washington, therefore, is hoping that Britain and Russia can be talked out of their balance of power maneuvering and brought back into line with the American idea of a general security system.
If not, it is feared American public opinion may not long support the idea of this country's participation in any world security system.

SOLDIER HELD AFTER THREAT TO SHOOT CITY MAN

Corporal Raymond Azbell, 21, of Lancaster, home on furlough from Fort Bliss, Texas, was held at city prison Thursday on open charges after threatening Emanuel Hundley, York street, with a .32 caliber revolver. Police said Az-bell called Hundley into a lavatory at the Haley Cafe at 1:30 a. m.
Thursday after he became angered because the local man had danced with a girl friend from Lancaster.
After entering the lavatory,
Hundley told Special Officers Carl Purcell and George Davis, the soldier who was in uniform pulled a revolver, pointed it at Hundley and told him to "get out, and quick."
Hundley left the cafe and notified police.

As the patrolmen walked into the cafe, Azbell ran, but he was caught on South Scioto street back of the Gordon accessory store. Patrolman Davis said he had seen Azbell toss something that might have been the revolver into some buildings. After daylight Thursday, Service Director Clarence Helvering and Patrolman Alva Shasver found the revolver on the roof of a shed. It was loaded with five cartridges and Azbell carried five more cartridges for the revolver in his pocket.

Police said that Hundley, who recently received a medical discharge from the army, had declined to file charges.
Police listed persons who were with Azbell as Jean Camp, Betty Hooker, Betty Sheets, Charles Tiller, Betty Sifert and Earl Gordon, all of Lancaster or near Lancaster.

The soldier's furlough papers said that he had been granted an 11-day furlough pass from Fort Bliss where he is training in an anti-aircraft outfit.

Police Chief W. F. McCrady said it hadn't been decided yet just what would be done with Azbell.

bonds to do so. "Don't wait for a solicitor," Mr. Will said, "go to your bank and let it be known that you want bonds."

The amount of money collected so far is a long way from the county's quota of $1,244,000.

The Pennsylvania railroad has allocated $10,000 in treasury savings notes, Series C, to the credit of the county.

"This allocation is in keeping,"
H. W. Schotter, treasurer, wrote,
"with those that have been made to other counties and we believe the distribution to be fair and equitable. We trust that the allocation will be satisfactory and will assist you in reaching your quota."

Don Ebricht, state treasurer, informed Mr. Will that $38,000 of a state purchase of $20,000,000 will be credited to Pickaway county's campaign. The money will be invested in certificates of indebtedness.

Bitter Fight On Food Subsidies Said To

he knew that plans for planting some crops in his state had been held up.

"I hope we can settle the matter by February 17," said Sen.
Bankhead (D) Ala., leader of the anti-subsidy fight. "If the Commodity Credit Corporation is not continued they can't pay support prices. I do not think the delay in settling the subsidy matter, however, will cause any reduction in planting of crops."

"The subsidy matter will follow the soldier's vote bill."

Charge Hurled

Danaher charged the administration to put congress "over a barrel" by postponing the subsidy fight until near the deadline and then demanding action under an emergency plea. Bankhead voiced doubt that such a plan had been devised.

The senate generally is expected to pass the bill with an anti-subsidy "rider" which is sure to be vetoed. The issue then facing congress would be upholding or overriding the veto.

Sen. Maloney (D) Conn., renewed his plea for a subsidy allowance of one billion, 500 million dollars to be used to keep down consumers food prices for a year.

PURDUE LOSES CENTER LODGE; OSU HOPES HIGH

Deficiency In His V-12 Work Takes Hoosier State Five's Ace

TWO GAMES SCHEDULED

Buckeyes Can Remain Well Up In Race By Knocking Off Two Contests

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 3.—A damper has been placed on the hopes of Purdue's steaming boiler-makers to continue undefeated in the Big Ten basketball race.

The setback came with disclosure today that Center Bill Lodge is scholastically deficient in his Navy V-12 work and will be ineligible to play against Ohio State in the crucial two-game series at Columbus tomorrow and Saturday.

The brilliant sophomore was high scorer in the team's early season games and has been floor man in Purdue's fast-breaking, hard-running game.

Ohio State, with one defeat and five victories to date, can remain high in the title sweepstakes by capturing the set against Purdue.

ALVA BRADLEY'S COMPLAINT HIT BY GOTHAMITES

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The latest plant from Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians, drew more criticism than support today from spokesmen for New York's three Major League baseball clubs.

Bradley's statement that baseball ought to fold up rather than take a chance of deteriorating into a farce if the manpower situation becomes too acute, was not taken seriously by representatives of the Giants, Dodgers and Yankees.

Leo J. Bondy, vice president of the Giants, pointed out that Bradley expressed similar pessimism last year, and predicted that he wouldn't take a chance on suspending operations because Cleveland automatically would lose its league franchise.

Branch Rickey, headman in the Dodger camp, expressed his sentiments by calling attention to a statement he made last year, in which he felt that it was baseball's duty to carry on. He declared it "was so good an answer now as it was then."

The president of the world-champion Yankees, Ed Barrow, refused to make any formal comment but indicated that he did not take any stock in the Cleveland owner's threat to suspend operation if backed to the wall by the manpower shortage.

Vander Meer's Summons To Service Brings Up Review of Fine Record

CINCINNATI, Feb. 3.—The assignment of Johnny VanderMeer to the United States Navy interrupts for the duration a baseball career that established the young southpaw as one of the game's premier pitchers. Johnny is the twenty-fifth member of the Cincinnati Reds to join the nation's armed forces.

Known wherever boys play baseball as the lad who pitched two successive no-hit games, Vandy for the last half dozen years has been one of the National League's foremost attractions.

But his fame does not rest solely on those historic no-hitters of 1938. That same year he won nine games in a row as the Reds raced to their only first division finish in a dozen years. For three seasons now he has paced the circuit in strikeouts, proving himself to be the loop's greatest whiff artist since Dizzy Vance.

Johnny's favorite victims are the St. Louis Cardinals, perennially one of the league's best clubs. He has decided them 14 times against only six reverses.

In all-star competition VanderMeer has been superb. He has worked an out less than nine innings of all-star games, and has held the haughty American leaguers to one run, and that one unearned. He started the string with three shutout innings in the 1938 game, repeated the trick in the 1942 affair, and saw the only run trickle over the plate in last Summer's engagement on a wild throw.

He has fanned 11 men in this classic competition, a mark equalled only Carl Hubbell.

Vandy was purchased by the Reds after a remarkable year with Durham of the Piedmont league in 1936. In that circuit he won 19 and lost six and rolled up the unheard-of strikeout mark of 295 in 214 innings.

His first start as a Redleg was in a night game at Cincinnati on May 19, 1937, against the Boston Braves. John that night gave an inkling of things to come when he whiffed 11 Braves, but three errors by a rookie infielder cost him the game, 3 to 1.

Bill McKechnie took VanderMeer in hand the next season, and the results are known to all who follow baseball. His blazing fast ball made him one of the league's best attractions.

But like all young southpaws Johnny had trouble with his control, and in 1939, after a stretch of erratic pitching, he went back to Indianapolis to polish his style and work his way back to the Reds' great corps of moundsmen. Since that time he has been their leading lefthander.

Two would be fun to pick an all-star South Central league basketball team even before the season is ended. . . . CHS has two games to play in the circuit, one at Washington C. H. Friday night and the other at Greenfield later on closing the South Central loop season.

How would you like to have a team comprised of Leon Sims of CHS and Bobby Mercer of Greenfield at the forwards; Dave Daniel of Wilmington at center, and Junior Anderson of CHS and Ad Copeland of Wilmington at the guards? . . . That would be a honey. . . . And there are other good boys in the league, too.

Tink Stanforth of Hillsboro would be No. 6 man. . . . He's in the army now, and was one of the most feared boys in the loop when he was inducted.

Circleville high will compete in the district Class A tournament at Delaware, 18 teams competing there. . . . In district class B, Pickaway county teams will travel to Westerville. . . . Thirty-four teams will play there. . . . Pickaway county is expected to have three representatives in the tourney again, same as in previous years.

The tourney winner, the runner up and the winner of the consolation game will make the trip. . . . Pairings for the county tournament were to be made this afternoon in Superintendent McDowell's office. . . . Atlanta and Ashville are top heavy favorites to meet in the finals, if the superintendents put an okeh on seeding.

The Atlanta team, which has not been tested a single time this year except in the 31-25 game it won from Pickaway last week at the Perry court, is back at it again tonight against the Pirates. . . . The two teams are meeting at the Pickaway school, and a big crowd of Circleville fans are expected to be there.

FINEST COURT SQUADS TO BE DECIDED SOON

COLUMBUS, Feb. 2.—Committees to select the outstanding basketball team in each of the National Collegiate Athletic Association districts to participate in the sectional tournaments, were announced today by H. G. Olsen, general tournament chairman.

The Eastern sectional, composed of the four teams selected from districts east of the Mississippi River, will be held at Madison Square Garden Thursday, March 23 and Saturday March 25. The Western sectional, bringing together the four teams selected from districts west of the Mississippi, will be held at Kansas City, March 24 and 25. The two sectionals will meet at the Garden the night of Tuesday, March 28 for the NCAA championship.

The selection committees in each of the eight districts will meet near the completion of the current campaign and select the outstanding team in the district which will be eligible to compete in the sectional contests.

DERBY WILL BE FOR HOME TOWN

Matt Winn Says Tickets Not Available To Any Outside Persons

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 3.—The 70th running of the famous Kentucky Derby next May 6 will be another home-town, street car affair, as last year's was, Col. Matt J. Winn announced today.

Men and women of the armed forces may benefit from this ruling, however, providing they live in the Louisville area.

Col. Winn said if persons outside the state wished to perpetuate their right to buy boxes for the 1945 derby they might do so by purchasing boxes this year, but only on condition they donate the boxes for use of persons in military service in Louisville or nearby.

This will be the only exception to the rule of not selling tickets to anyone outside the general Louisville area, Col. Winn declared.

FIGHT SCORING GETS A-TAKING OVER THE COALS

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—If things continue around here in the prize-fight officiating business as they have been in recent semesters we are likely to wind-up with either a new set of scoring rules or a new set of officials. Perhaps a dash of each would help. Unless one of our gladiators gets himself stiffened to preclude the chance of a decision on points, the wisest procedure for the spectators is to head quickly for the exits and avoid the confusion bound to follow the edict of the referee and two judges. Somebody is going to start throwing things one of these nights.

We had the strange case of the Sammy Angott-Beau Jack 10-round over-the-weight match last week. It was called a draw and majority opinion around the ring-side seemed agreed on the justice of this verdict. However, three blind mice couldn't have been much farther apart in the scoring.

One judge favored Angott by seven rounds to three; the other picked Beau Jack six rounds to four; the referee split it down the middle, awarding five rounds to each fighter.

This is not the first such occurrence here of late, nor is it likely to be the last in close fights, but there should be some way to bring the gents who have the say a little closer together. We need a genius to study the thing and clarify what constitutes a margin of victory. In New York, decisions are based on the number of rounds won by each fighter to greater extent than in some sections where a preponderance of points weighs heavily.

One thing about officiating that might lead to carelessness is that the judges are virtual nonentities. Their names are announced before the bout, but not a half dozen spectators out of nearly 20,000 would be able to pick them out at the ringside and how they voted is never made public to the arena mob, right there on the scene.

Mr. Bill Corum, one of our better sports writers and a denizen of the ringside through many years, has an idea. He suggests that the ballots of the judges be read over the public address system to the spectators.

Youth Canteen Group Organizes, Names Dean As Committee Chief

Circleville's Youth Canteen organization became an official body Wednesday evening when members of a general committee appointed by the city's service clubs to conduct all preliminary work in order to get the youth movement under way organized by choosing its officers.

The general committee is one designated by the various service clubs, each being represented in the organization.

Other organizations of Circleville and Pickaway county are being issued an invitation to participate in the Youth Canteen movement, a open meeting being held in offices of the Ralston Purina Co. Thursday, February 10, with lodges, societies, clubs and other organizations being urged to send delegations.

Best "Donuttee"

SERVICEMEN acclaim Jackie Tucker of Karber's Ridge, Ill., as the nation's most popular "donuttee" doing canteen work. More than 100,000 soldiers cast votes in the election sponsored by the National Bunking Ass'n. (International).

ASHVILLE

Ashville Temple 366, Pythian Sisters, held its regular meeting Tuesday evening with nineteen members present. After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. Groundhog had his day today and locally he didn't see his shadow. According to tradition, the groundhog awakens each February 2, emerges from his cozy den, and looks over the situation. If he sees his shadow, he's supposed to decree six weeks more of winter weather and dash back into his hole in the ground. But, if he doesn't see his shadow, then spring is supposed to be just "around the corner." We understand that in some parts of Ohio, the sun shone a part of the day; so, no matter what follows the superstition will be carried out. At any rate we hope the ensuing weather pleases everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Leatherwood have purchased the Dan Wine property now occupied by the Glenn Leatherwood family.

A. B. Cooper, well-known Ashville oil and gasoline distributor, suffered a broken arm in a fall at his home.

The Sophomore class reports a bond sale of $3,000 to W. G. Cain of South Bloomfield. This gives the class an excellent chance of making their quota of $10,000 in the sale of War Bonds and stamps.

It is reported that the Boy Scouts are to begin work within a few days on their Honor Roll for Ashville boys in the service.

Hearing Jud Lanman and Boyd Stout discuss the work being done by the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce makes one feel that there are many things we could do here in Ashville to improve our village if we had some organization to sponsor and promote these activities. Among other things our baseball diamond and quarter-mile track, once the best in Central Ohio, are in need of attention if they are to be usable in a few years. Little or nothing has been done in recent years to maintain or improve either. This seems like a project for our energetic young generation to tackle, since they will benefit most from its completion.

The Youth Canteen committee is soliciting suggestions and ideas from all organizations of the city concerning the center in its organization and when it is finally organized.

Heading the service club's committee is Hal Dean, representing Junior Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis club on the general organization. Other officers include Clark Will, of the Rotary club, treasurer, and Miss Rose Good of the Business and Professional Women's club, secretary.

Other members of the general committee are Virgil Cress, Ray Alter, Judson Lanman, John Moore, Mrs. Barton Deming, Mrs. Glen Geib, Mrs. Tom Renick, Miss Margaret Rooney, Paul A. Johnson, Mack Parrett, Mrs. Frank Bowling and Tom Armstrong.

The Canteen committee has fixed its age limitations for participation in the project to 'teen age youngsters. Children who are 13 may participate and youths, both boys and girls, who have not yet reached 20 may also be enrolled as members.

The Canteen will be managed by a paid hostess-supervisor. The general committee has been considering names of several persons for this job, but has not yet made a selection. Any person interested in applying for the position should telephone Mrs. Deming, No. 840.

Importance of the meeting next Thursday evening was stressed by the Canteen committee, all organizations wishing to be represented being issued an invitation to attend.

The location for the Youth Canteen has not yet been decided.

Berger hospital collections for January were almost $600 above expenditures, council was informed Wednesday evening. Some of the money collected, the city officials were informed, was from work done in December when expenditures exceeded receipts, but council was pleased to learn that a gain was scored at the institution.

Collections in January amounted to $2,935.50, while expenses were $2,137.43.

Sixty-eight patients were admitted during the month, 74 were treated, there were 19 births, two deaths, 14 operations and 529 days of care. Among expenses were employees' salaries, $791.46; fuel and light, $102.85; provisions, $571.84; medical supplies, $208.65; other supplies, $145.95; laundry, $316.68.

Mrs. Bess Kochheiser is serving as acting superintendent at the hospital until Miss Helen Yarnell of Columbus reports for duty about February 11.

POTTER FUNERAL

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon in the Adelphi Methodist church for Miss Mary Potter, 51, who died Saturday in Chicago. Miss Potter was a daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Potter, her father having practiced medicine in the Adelphi district for more than 10 years. He has been dead since 1898. Her mother died 34 years ago. Miss Potter left Adelphi at the age of 16. Survivors include an uncle, Will Acord of Kingston and a first cousin, Gerald Rose, of Laurelville.

At Revival

THE Rev. Merle Holcomb, above, pastor of the Bremen United Brethren church, will be the evangelist for special revival services opening Sunday night at the Pleasant View Evangelical church of the Stoutsville Evangelical charge. Mrs. Merle Holcomb will conduct the young people's meetings, and Mrs. Harold Dutt, wife of the host pastor, will have charge of the music. Meetings will be held each night except Saturday through Sunday February 20. Young people's service will be at 7:15 and the evangelistic rites at 7:45.

ACTIVE MARKET FEATURES LOCAL STOCK AUCTION

An active market with receipts heavy and prices good marked the weekly auction Wednesday of the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative association.

Good steers and heifers brought a top of $15.10, 212 head of stock being offered.

Hog receipts were not quoted, but price paid for 180 to 200 pound stock was up to $13.75.

There were 42 calves offered at a top of $17, and while sheep and lamb receipts were light the best price was $15.75.

RATION BOARD GETS CALL TO DISTRICT MEET

Pickaway county rationing board is being asked to attend a sub-district OPA meeting February 10 at East high school, Columbus, starting at 7:30 p. m. at which time closer cooperation between various panels of the rationing boards and the district office will be stressed.

The meeting is being called by Inwood Smith, OPA operations executive.

The meeting will be in the form of a clinic with problems of the various organizations to be discussed.

Other OPA units attending the East high meeting in addition to Pickaway county will be all the Franklin county boards and the Fayette county board.

George D. McDowell, chairman of the Pickaway county board, is urging a full attendance by members of his various panels.

BREHM OPPOSES FDR

Congressman Walter Brehm of Logan, representative of the 11th Ohio district, was one of Ohio's 17 congressmen who opposed the White House move this week for a roll call vote on the question of a federal ballot for members of the armed services.

The roll call move was defeated 233 to 160.

MAYOR REFUSES TO OKEH BILL OF POLICEMAN

Despite the fact that Mayor Ben H. Gordon declined to sign the council ordinance providing payment of $300 to Miller Fissell, Sayfert avenue, for use of his motorcycle, police radio and equipment during the time he was on the police force, the measure has become legal and Fissell may collect any time the money is in the general fund.

Council approved the legislation January 19 after lengthy discussion and argument concerning legality of the claim.

Mayor Gordon informed members of the council that while he did not intend to veto the measure he would not approve it.

In a notation read at council meeting Wednesday, the mayor said:

"I am returning this ordinance without approving the same as there is no contract on file authorizing this expenditure."

The measure became legal January 29, 10 days after the ordinance was passed since the mayor did not veto it.

Mr. Fissell filed his claim after council debated for 10 months over whether the money was due him. The bill was finally approved.

Mr. Fissell is now on a year's leave of absence from his police department duties. The year expires in March. He has not informed city officials whether he will return to the department or whether he will continue to work with his father, A. E. Fissell, in operation of the Caddy Miller men's shop.

Mayor Gordon did not appear at the council meeting, being expected home Friday or Saturday from New York where he has been for the last several days.

MISS McEWING TO TAKE PLACE OF CITY AUDITOR

Miss Charlotte McEwing, who has been in charge of disposal plant rental collections for the last several years, has been appointed by Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, to do her work when she goes to a hospital soon for surgery. Miss Young was given authority by council at its last meeting to name a deputy to fulfill her duties when she is absent.

The auditor's bond will cover both positions, and arrangements for paying Miss McEwing will be handled by the auditor without expense to the city.

Miss McEwing will also continue her services as sewage disposal collector.

THE GREAT SHOW-DOWN

"VENGEANCE is mine, I will repay, saith the Lord."

The Japanese have perpetrated monstrous crimes against innocent men in the Pacific, and the Nazi Germans in populous and civilized Europe have been almost as bad. In the establishment of a decent world, men may be co-workers with God as they were of old. Is it not a part of the divine plan when they unite, as great nations are now doing, to destroy barbarians who themselves would destroy a humane civilization?

The revelations from Washington of the full wickedness of the Japanese assaults, against a world seeking cooperation rather than conquest, leave no doubt as to where intelligent people will stand in this critical war. It is a greater crusade than mankind has yet seen, and humanity will win, through the sacrificial efforts of brave and intelligent men.

TWO-WAY POLITICS

It is a familiar American saying that "you can't have it both ways," but we might be wrong about it in politics, at least. Canada, for instance, had a Conservative party which wasn't doing very well, so some enterprising leaders had a brilliant idea. They renamed it the "Progressive Conservative" party, thus playing both ends against the middle. And they did better with that set-up, although they failed to win. Next time, if they are still facing both ways, they might put it over.

It might add to the interest of the American political situation if the same procedure were adopted in this country. A "Republican Democratic" ballot, for instance. There really was a set-up much like that in the early part of the last century, and for a couple of elections it was quite a chore for the voters to figure out which side they were on, and why.

PUZZLED NAZIS

A neat little story of German mentality came from the Rapido river the other day. In an American attack, a Nazi outfit was rounded up without fighting. They explained it as follows:

"They told us to stay in our dugouts if you attacked with tanks. If you attacked with infantry, we were supposed to get out and fight. But you attacked with tanks and infantry at the same time, so we didn't know what to do, and surrendered." It wasn't fear, but mental puzzlement. And such inability to think and act for themselves, as Americans do in such cases, will be a factor in Nazi defeat.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

KIMMEL, SHORT MAY BE CALLED

WASHINGTON — Defense lawyers for Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling and the 32 other propagandists under indictment for "sedition" have a "cute trick" up their sleeves when the case is brought to trial early in April.

They plan to call as witnesses Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and General Walter C. Short, who were retired after the Pearl Harbor attack.

One of the "conspiracy" charges against the 33 defendants is that they circulated literature trying to fix the blame for Pearl Harbor on the President. It was claimed in publications put out by Mrs. Dilling and others under indictment that the President and his war and navy secretaries "invited the attack" by the Japs by failing to prepare our defenses at Pearl Harbor.

The indictments returned by the grand jury charged that the defendants were not motivated by patriotic ideals in making such charges—and the record of the grand jury proceeding leaves little doubt about this.

However, some people feel that Kimmel and Short weren't entirely to blame for the Pearl Harbor tragedy, but were made the goats. So far, they have been denied a court martial. Therefore it will be an odd quirk of fate if they are given their first chance to talk at a "sedition" trial. Lawyers for Mrs. Dilling et al. have every intention of calling them.

James J. Laughlin, Washington attorney engaged by defendant Smythe, author of a publication called "Our Common Cause," declared in reply to questions:

"You're darned right I plan to call Kimmel and Short to the stand, although I don't know that they will be allowed to testify. They may be shut up. However, if this happens, I'll demand a recess of the trial. Under the Constitution, we have every right to demand to hear the full story of the Pearl Harbor disaster from Kimmel and Short in open court."

DEAF U. S. AMBASSADOR

If you can get Bolivian General David Torro, now in Washington, to talk, you can understand why we were caught by surprise by the Bolivian revolution. He says, with a flash of the eye, that the coup would never have taken place if the United States had had a better ambassador on the scene.

According to Torro, the U. S. embassy in La Paz has a number of wide-awake officers, but they have been prevented by Ambassador Pierre Boal from making the necessary contacts to keep well informed. And Boal himself is so punctilious and protocol-minded that he can't stoop far enough to get his ear to the ground.

Boal has now been recalled in what appears to be a slap at the new Bolivian government. Actually, the recall is a slap at Boal himself.

BIG BUSINESS EYES EUROPE

Here is the inside story of how big business is watching the advance of the Allied armies in order to restore foreign investments and industrial operations as soon as possible.

Thus far, progress has been rather disappointing. However, the National Foreign Trade Council, in New York, set up a committee to pave the way for the return of (Continued on Page Ten)

DIET AND HEALTH

Right Ways To Instill Good Habits In Child

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I KNOW OF no department of medicine which has made more improvement than the science of treating and training children. A recent book called Modern Ways With Children, by Dr. Elizabeth

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

B. Hurlock (published by McGraw Hill Book Company, New York), explaining the most up-to-date methods is therefore welcome.

It deals not so much with the technique of physical treatment—such as diet, bathing, clothing, teething—as with the management of the child's mind and emotions in regard to such fundamentals as growth, eating, sleep, speech, habits, discipline, clothes, etc.

About one of the problems which confront many mothers—food likes and dislikes, Dr. Hurlock says:

"Studies of food dislikes in children have revealed that vegetables and cereals top the list. Most children like meat, potatoes, bread, and desserts of all kinds; but when it comes to vegetables and cooked cereals, they revolt. In most instances, urging the child to eat some food 'because it is good for him' or 'will make him grow' is the basis of the trouble."

Improper Cooking

"Another offensive factor is the improper cooking of vegetables and cereals. Too often the flavor of the vegetable is gone and the taste flat because of overcooking or the use of too much water. In too many households the cereal is lumpy, and the child revolts against it not because of the taste but because of the texture."

amounts. The child likes this or that food not so much because of its taste as because of the circumstances under which it has been eaten. If he were allowed to select his own food, the chances are that he would have no marked taste likes or dislikes. He would, in time, learn to dislike food that was not good for him, because of the uncomfortable after effects. The chances are also that he would sooner or later learn to like food that is good for him because he would feel much better after eating it."

Good Habits of Childhood

Here are the good habits of childhood:

"Eating habits, such as chewing with the mouth closed, good table manners, proper speed of eating, and adequate mastication of food before it is swallowed."

"Sleep habits, including going to sleep within a short time of retiring, relaxing instead of tossing around, waking at a set time, sleeping throughout the entire night, without having to get up to urinate, going to sleep without a light in the room or without a toy to play with in bed, and sleeping without dreams of any sort."

"Punctuality in all routine activities, such as meals, getting up and going to bed, dressing, going to school, getting ready to go out to play with friends, or meeting others at planned times."

"Speech habits, as correct pronunciation and grammatical forms and a large enough vocabulary not to have to rely upon slang or the use of gestures."

"Cheerfulness as a habitual attitude, even under difficult circumstances."

"Courtesy to strangers, as well as to members of the family, regardless of class distinctions."

"Orderliness and care of personal possessions, including clothes, bathroom equipment, books, and playthings."

Yankee Senorita

BY LORENA CARLETON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

MALLORY'S sudden inward vow to marry Carlos and give up her work did not fit from her mind as soon as she had said it. Quite the opposite. It gathered strength with each new obstacle that confronted her. And there were several.

"Where are you steering me?" she demanded now of Sandy.

She had expected to go into the dim auditorium, walk down a side aisle, from there go back of the boxes and find her way to the stage.

Her accompanist said, "I'm trying to find the theatrical director's office to find out where we're getting put."

"I shall show you to the director's office," spoke up Armando. "I know exactly where it is, though the path leading there is intricate. But I know everything about this tremendous building." And about everything else, his demeanor implied.

"We're not having a stage rehearsal today," Sandy was explaining to the singer, as they trailed the Mexican boy. "A couple of other Americans are having their stage rehearsal today. Setting lights and curtain cues."

Other Americans! That information shot through the haughty blond girl like a stab of pain. She realized she never once had thought of sharing even the Palace of Fine Arts with others. While following Armando, she found time to glance at the stage. A lean young man with a prominent nose was exercising. A small girl moved toward him with a rolling walk.

"Ballet dancers!" sniffed Mallory. "I'd recognize that silly waddling duck walk anywhere. Who wants to look at ballet dancers?" Her indignation was touched with jealousy.

Sandy grinned, knowing the girl had formed an absurd ownership of Mexico and its gorgeous theater that would make her interest flame. The ballet dancers had assured him of that.

They were in the backstage area now, Armando still in advance. "The director is situated right beneath the huge center dome," he told his two followers.

Gone now was the front elegance of marble, of velvet and gold, of native woods, of thick carpets underfoot, and of heaven-striving ceilings overhead. They wound through narrow hallways, went through dark looking doors and up steps. Always steps.

"I should think they'd have an elevator in this building," "They do, senorita," said Armando, still climbing. "But, it has been condemned."

"Then they should have another," she pouted.

"Now, now," corrected Sandy. "Such fussing over a bit of climbing doesn't sound like Mallory Baker of the famous lung power."

"The building sinks," said Armando, and throws the elevator out of shape. The senorita, amended Sandy, "is feeling her temperament."

"Ah, smiled Armando, striding on. "Perhaps she needs the ears bopped," he said seriously.

"If only Tod could hear that!"

breathed the accompanist.

Mallory Baker did not reply.

She now was angry over this visit to the director's office. Kow-towing! It was not the proper reception for one of her fame. Not that she would have minded walking a few steps over thick rugs to greet the man. But this was too much!

And he, no doubt, was sitting comfortably in his office chair trying to figure out some method of being two hours late for an appointment, merely to keep up the custom of that Latin procrastination.

She was wrong. The director was back of a work-filled desk, from where he leaped to bestow an attentive greeting to expert English. Latham and Roberts, the American reporters, were there also, and with them a third fellow, carrying a camera. All were staring, as were the three stenographers back of typewriters.

Mallory nodded toward the director's desk, with its photographs, miniature stage sets, music, press clippings, letters and telegrams. "Looks like New York."

That, in keeping with so many other things in Mexico, had no connection with the girl's previous opinions. If she'd thought at all concerning her appearance in the city she had been largely condescending. She would be sensational, naturally. But she also had figured she would be the only attraction. To be crowded in with many attractions, not with her name and drawing power perhaps, but with enough importance to keep a director and three energetic stenographers busy, was a definite jolt to Mallory Baker.

The theatrical director did not even accompany them. He gave instructions and a key to Armando. Again the singer began to march, this time with Latham and Roberts and Lopez, the cameraman added to her entourage.

Latham said, as they walked along, "Lopez wants some art for Hoy. Similar to your better weekly picture magazines 'n the States. The group dissolved into single file to squeeze past a stage backdrop lying flat on the floor. Painters were putting on the sky in large wet splashes of blue. Mallory and her retinue came together again.

"Let's go strong on dignity," specified Latham. "This is for the masses."

"And we want a story," added Roberts. "Hope you've been doing something exciting. This story must have some life."

Armando was fitting the key into the lock with a great show of importance. The singer finally answered the American reporters. "Well, boys, outside of having spotted a couple of murderers and fallen in love with the best looking man I've ever seen in my life, I've had little excitement in Mexico." She knew they would not believe her.

They chuckled politely and said in unison, "Seriously, Miss Baker!"

Armando stepped back proudly and motioned all the others into the rehearsal room. It was a cavernous hall, barren except for a few iron chairs and an extremely old upright piano. Mallory was angry all over again.

She flounced to the aged instrument and quickly plunked a half-dozen keys. "Needs tuning," she announced viciously. She pounded a few more, so incensed over discordant tones that she did not know Lopez had snapped her.

Sandy pushed her aside, sat down and began experimenting with the keyboard himself. And with pedals. There were two more, an usual one of the five produced a strident banjo effect, the second extra offered a tinkling mandolin. Sandy began playing grand opera, added the beer tavern effects of those imitated instruments and convulsed Mallory. Hilarious good humor replaced the sullenness on her face.

Lopez snapped another picture. The longer Mallory practiced, the more she realized she needed practice. Not that she sounded bad. Even at her poorest Mallory Baker was good. But she did not like being at her poorest. When she opened her mouth she wanted the sounds to delight her as well as her listeners.

There was no doubt of her listeners being delighted. Latham, Roberts, Lopez, Armando, of course, even Sandy—all were intent. Even the warning-up exercises, the two little slow opening numbers to "oil the voice" as if it were a motor—they had not bored her small audience. The two American reporters seemed to have forgotten another appointment that they had mentioned to Mallory. They now were two hours and five minutes late for it. Yet they sat, wearing the same Latin complacency as Lopez, who long ago had packed his camera.

The girl was singing "A Little Voice I Hear" from the "Barber of Seville," a glittering number with its rapid arpeggios and fast scales. There was silence for a moment broken finally by Latham.

"Who?" His admiration was whistled softly. "Let's go, fellows. She can't be any better and I don't want the spell broken." He took her hand. "What a dame! What a dame!"

"Come to cocktails this evening," she said on the spur of the moment. "I'll have Richard Blythe, another American, and Manuella and Carlos."

Latham's brows lifted. "Manuella? Manuella and Carlos are of the old aristocracy, my dear. Haven't you learned yet that they don't mix with the common herd?"

"You were mixed at the interview."

"For a purpose. Oh, we see Manuella often. She has a million charities and we write about them. So she interpreted—"

The absurdity of Latham's obviously serious statement stayed with the girl's thoughts during all her afternoon practice. But it left her completely when she reached her apartment at the Montecito. Only one thing was in her mind, one horrible thing. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon Prism still was sleeping.

Great works are performed not by strength, but by perseverance. He that shall walk with vigor, three hours a day, will pass, in seven years, a space equal to the circumference of the globe.—John-son.

Hints on Etiquette
It is not courteous or wise to force your own ideas of dress upon your children. Guide their taste, do not impose your own upon them.

Today's Horoscope
The person who has a birthday today should be married early in life to someone born in January, June or October. You are kind, generous, good-natured, have excellent self-control and keep your own counsel. You are fond of the out-of-doors, and love pets and animals. Strange, unexpected and yet favorable events follow you in the next 12 months. Be neither confounded nor dismayed, as ultimate gain will ensue. This will be truly a memorable year for you. The child born today will be remarkable in many ways, most original, informative, inventive and ingenious. Renown is highly probable.

STARS SAY—

For Thursday, February 3
THE ASTRAL influences ruling on this day are fraught with certain dangers and losses that may be avoided by shrewdness, precaution and systematic attention to details and the regulation of practical procedure according to the accepted methods and routines. Any careless, impractical or over clever gestures might exact penalties or losses. The extravagant use of assets, or personal resources, through excess or prodigality would defeat the best laid plans and most desirable propositions. Slow but sure might be the motto, with "the other fellow" taking the chances. In public stick to rules and codes.

If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may encounter some perplexing and difficult situations, which call for shrewd, systematic and sound working out of plans rather than ill-advised, showy, or extravagant use of funds or energies. These might be squandered to no constructive purpose, and with definite peril to some encouraging opportunities or to accumulated resources. It might be well to take time to consider the most practical means to desired ends, with keen and well-developed insight to basic situations. Public or community well-being also demand consideration, with study not snap judgment. Be patient in crises.

A child born on this day may have much constructive ability and wish for sound objectives. Although it may play with its opportunities, by extravagance, prodigality or folly. This may apply to funds and physical energies.

on Peace

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Westminster Bible class of the Presbyterian church met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, Wayne township, with 15 members present. Mrs. Howard Newell Stevenson interested the class members with the splendid paper, "The Peace for Which We Fight," that she had prepared for the Child Conservation league.

Mrs. Carl Kennedy requested the class to sponsor the project of purchasing 250 new hymnals for the church. Mrs. John Hulise, class president, appointed Mrs. Orin W. Dreisbach, Mrs. Will Mack and Mrs. J. B. Stevenson as a committee to supervise the work.

Mrs. Hulise opened the meeting with a timely poem. Mrs. Mack conducting the devotional service. Mrs. Charles Smith acted as secretary and Mrs. Mack, treasurer, both officers being absent.

Mrs. Walter Downing read a letter from her son, Thomas, now in army service, telling of receiving the Christmas letter from the class. She also told of various experiences her son has had with the armed forces.

Mrs. Hulise announced the nominating committee that is to report a slate of officers for the coming year. The committee is comprised of the last three presidents of the class, Mrs. Hulise, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Dreisbach. Election will be held at the March session. Plans for the meeting include a covered dish supper with the officers of the class as hostesses.

Mrs. Stevenson, assisted by Mrs. Mack, Mrs. Downing and Miss Ethel Kiger, served tea and assorted cookies during the closing social hour.

Emmett's Chapel W. S. C. S. Twenty-five members and guests gathered Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Harry Wright, Pickaway township, for the regular meeting of Emmett's Chapel W. S. C. S. Mrs. E. C. Wilkins joined Mrs. Wright as a hostess for the occasion.

Mrs. B. W. Young read several interesting letters from boys stationed at Camp Breckenridge telling of their pleasure in the Christmas boxes sent them by the society. The society sent a large number of boxes filled with Christmas gifts to the post to be given to men known to be without families and who would not otherwise receive remembrances at the holiday season. This was the second year for the project, the names of the men being furnished through the assistance of Colonel Harry D. Jackson.

Mrs. Clarence Maxson conducted a fine devotional service. Plans were made for an apron and food sale for the Saturday preceding Easter. The special collection for the afternoon was comprised of pennies equal to the

Ladies-in-Waiting

THE heir apparent, to make a play in words, will not be apparent at all, when this beautiful dinner dress is a lady-in-waiting's costume. Just as comfortable, far more becoming than a loose coat, long evenings at home or neighborhood with friends will be more pleasant if a model like this is the uniform of the evening.

Both bodice and skirt adjust themselves to fit without any tedious sewing for alteration. The style is classic and the gown has years of usefulness after the baby's birthday is past. Colors are lovely, and include lime green, aquamarine and Wedgewood blue, black or navy... all in sheer crepe.

West High street. Plans were made to do sewing for the Red Cross and mending for Berger hospital as the materials are available.

Preceding the business and social meeting, Mrs. Stofor served an excellent lunch.

Mrs. Loring Evans will be hostess at the March session.

Two Hostesses Entertain

Honoring Miss Mary Phillips, whose marriage to Donald Coleman of Chillicothe will take place February 13, Miss Dorothy Jane Yurko and Miss Margie Great-house entertained at a party and miscellaneous shower at the Yurko home in Chillicothe. Miss Phillips is a former resident of Circleville where she lived with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Wignel, of South Pickaway street. Games were played and prizes were won by Miss Barbara Morgan and Miss Rosemary Hoffman. After Miss Phillips opened her many lovely gift packages, a salad course was served.

Ebenezer Social Circle

Ebenezer Social circle will meet Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. J. C. Mullins, East Mound street.

"See-ability" keeps young eyes bright

1 IT'S EASIER TO READ when sitting up straight with light falling fully upon reading matter—without shadows or harmful glare! This increases "See-ability", protects eyes.

2 WITH NORMAL VISION, the recommended distance between eyes and close work ranges from 14 inches for children to up to 18 inches for adults.

3 LOOKING UP PERIODICALLY at different objects around the room for a moment or two will relieve delicate muscles and be restful to the eyes.

Wartime Lighting Suggestions

- Clean lamp bowls and lamp bulbs frequently to get from 25% to 30% more light from lamps you have.
- Use white shades or shades with white linings, re-paint 'em if necessary. Dark shades waste light.
- Avoid direct glare from lamp bulbs or bowl by using shades that are deep enough and big enough.

- Place each lamp so it puts no glare on the eyes of either person using it.
- Arrange lamps and furniture so each lamp can serve two or more people, if possible.
- Tilt work or reading to the angle that gets rid of reflected glare, try it; you can see the difference.

- Sit close enough to the lamp to get all the help it can give the eyes. A difference of a few inches means 50% less light.
- Have eyes examined by a competent eye-sight specialist. Good light helps make seeing easier; does not correct eye defects.
- Turn off lamp you are not using. This is one way you can help in the nation's program to conserve materials.

Obituary

Elta May Cryder Kendall was born at Tarenton, Ohio, the daughter of Isaac and Ellen Wolford Cryder, February 2nd, 1872. She departed this life, Thursday, January 20th, 1944 at 10:15 p. m. at her home in Jackson township. Her wish was to enter into eternal rest if she could not get well. All that loving hands could do was of no avail.

March 13th, 1892 she was united in marriage to Carey Kendall of Ross county. This union was blessed with nine children. Three daughters preceding her to the great beyond: Minnie Nellie and Rose Bartley, wife of Jerry Bartley of Washington township.

She leaves to mourn her departure, husband, four sons and two daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Brown, Springfield; Mrs. Katherine Vandenberg, and Ivan Kendall of Circleville; William of Jackson township; Roy and Robert of Columbus. Also three sisters and one brother, Mrs. Alice Dilley of Circleville, who was her nurse and companion thru her illness; Mrs. Louise Jones of Salt Creek township; Mrs. Minnie Kuhn of Tarenton, and William Cryder of Salt Creek township, twenty-one grandchildren and one great grandchild, also a host of relatives and friends.

She was converted at the Imber church in her girlhood and was a firm believer in our Lord Jesus Christ. This little poem is dedicated to her loved ones.

I will meet you at the portal,
Just beyond the starry sky;
I will meet you up in heaven
When we will never say goodbye.

We will meet our blessed Savior
And our loved ones gone before;
We will be forever happy
On the bright Eternal Shore.

Cheer up loved ones, time is passing,
And the day will shortly come,
When we will leave this world of sorrow
There to meet around the throne.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our neighbors and friends for their sympathy and kindness during the illness and at the death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Mary Defenbaugh for his efficient services and the pastor Rev. Dunn for his consoling words.

Carey Kendall and family.

LOW CONTRACTS HARDEST

ALL OF THE same devices that help with high contracts are used by the fine player on the low ones. Even greater skill is usually required then, as the cardman must keep track of more different items. With the strength about evenly divided between the two sides, the small cards are likely to become more important, and consequently the careful card reading of every suit.

HORROR OF PRISON

An eyewitness account of how the Japanese tortured, starved and sometimes murdered American soldiers who were taken prisoners in the Philippines will be reported by Commander Melvyn H. McCoy, USN, on the March of Time tonight. The program goes on the air over NBC at 9:30.

PENNY LEE SINGS

Penny Lee, who first saw the light of day in Omaha, Nebraska, 23 years ago, will be the gal-of-the-week on the Bob Crosby-Les Tremayne show, Sunday evening at 9:30.

Penny was the featured vocalist with Joe Reichman's orchestra before she decided to devote her time to singing for the men in service and studying nursing. Right now her proudest possessions are a silver medal designating her a three time donor to the Red Cross Blood Bank, and a Nurse's Aide Certificate awarded after six weeks' intensive training in Los Angeles. Where she used to talk about the number of cities in which she had sung, she now tells of the hospitals in which she has served.

At the age of sixteen Penny was the vocalist with the staff orchestra at WOW, in Omaha. Don Bestor heard her and before long she was touring the east and south. She made her debut with Joe Reichman in New Orleans in 1942.

Bob Crosby and Les Tremayne will join Miss Lee on the weekly slide song in which Bob supplies the baritone background and Les displays his verbal talents. Ever since Les burst out in song, after studying secretly for months, Bob has been driven to the classics and promises to spring some Shakespeare on the audience very soon.

new pictures which are to be released soon. They are "Chip Off the Block," "This Is the Life," "Patrick the Great," and "The Merry Monarchs." The latter film young O'Connor will finish up within the next week or so, after which, he expects to join the army.

Golden-haired Marilyn Maxwell arrived in the film capital a little over a year ago. While engaged as Ted Weems' featured songstress, she abruptly decided one afternoon while horseback riding to seriously consider a film career. Weems not only wished her best of luck but helped to back her trip to Hollywood. After making a few "juke-box" musical shorts, she was given an acting test and put to work in "Salute to the Marines." Her newest film venture is "Swing Fever."

Bing will start off the Music Hall show by singing with the Charlesters and the Music Males and Lee, "San Fernando Valley." "The Groaner" and his guest "Kid" O'Connor will team up for the memory song, "Small Fry." Bing and the Charlesters will close the musical bill-of-fare with "I'll Be Seeing You." John Scott

Now South reckoned East would not have made that lead unless he had four clubs headed by the J-10; if so, West now had a singleton K. So he played the A in dummy and dropped it, then led the club 4, hoping East would duck. He did, the 9 winning, whereupon the 7 put East in with the 10.

Hating to lead a diamond, East now chose the heart 2, the J forcing the Q. A diamond from dummy was now ducked by East, who wanted to save his A for the K. That enabled the Q to win, making six tricks, and the needed seventh was scored with the heart A, to make 1-No Trump when defenders held the balance of power.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Latest song to hit for "Hit Parade" rating is "Dear Mr. Crosby," which was introduced for the first time last Thursday on the Bob Burns "Arkansas Traveler" programs by Jimmy Dodd. He's the lad who, on a previous appearance with Burns, premiered his "Sinatra, Stay Away From My Door."

"Lum and Abner," radio's Pine Ridge philosophers, are about to embark on their fifth motion picture. Each of the previous four flickers was a big money maker. Incidentally, their latest release, still playing in key cities, is "So This Is Washington."

Challenge: Frank Novak, maestro on "Hook 'n' Ladder Follies," claims to have a greater mental repertoire of songs than any other bandleader in radio. Novak knows 10,000 tunes and can play the piano 24 hours without repeating a number. That's one for Ripley!

Council Issues Ultimatum On Repair of Grade Crossings.

30 DAY NOTICE TO BE SERVED ON RAILROAD

City To Do Work And Offer Bill For Services To Norfolk & Western

MASON OPPOSES MOVE

Councilman Asserts Line Always Has Met All Local Requests

Unless the Norfolk and Western railroad takes immediate steps to repair its grade crossings through Circleville and to build a sidewalk over its Clinton street crossing, Circleville's service department will do the various jobs necessary and the city will then go into court to collect the amount of money the work cost, plus six percent interest.

This action was started Wednesday evening when council voted an ordinance authorizing Service Director Clarence Helvering to serve notice on the railroad relative to repair of the crossings, which are in terrible condition, and concerning construction of the Clinton street sidewalk.

Under statute, the railroad must start the necessary work within 30 days after receiving notice or the city can do the work and collect through court procedure.

Mason Dissents
The ordinance did not make its way through council without opposition, however, Councilman J. Donald Mason dissenting. All other councilmen favored the action.

Mr. Mason asked why the city should be trying to force the Norfolk and Western railroad to make repairs when that company had through the years done everything that Circleville had asked. "Why jump on the Norfolk and Western?" he asked, "why not the Pennsylvania. That railroad has never done a thing for Circleville."

Mason voted to suspend rules so the ordinance could be tested immediately, but opposed it in the roll call.

Urges Sidewalk

Councilman Boyd Horn, representing the Fourth Ward, has been fighting for a sidewalk over the Clinton street crossing ever since he went into council.

"If you other members of council had children walking across those tracks every day to the Franklin street school, taking a chance on getting hit by automobiles or by trains, you'd raise some hell, too," Horn declared Wednesday night.

Not only is a walk needed on Clinton street, but every crossing in the city is in critical condition. All members of council agree that repairs must be made at the grades.

Mason declared that the Norfolk and Western is doing a splendid job in the war effort, its skeleton crews of workmen doing everything they can to keep the rights-of-ways of the main Scioto division line in condition to haul war goods and troop trains in a continuous string. Mason argued that the railroad does not have the manpower available now to do repair work such as this.

THREE MORE OHIO WITNESSES FACE PRISON TERMS

Three more men claiming to be deferable from draft because they are Jehovah's Witnesses were convicted Wednesday in Judge Mell G. Underwood's court in Columbus.

Their conviction boosts the total convicted in the last two weeks to 15 Ohioans, all of whom have refused to bear arms.

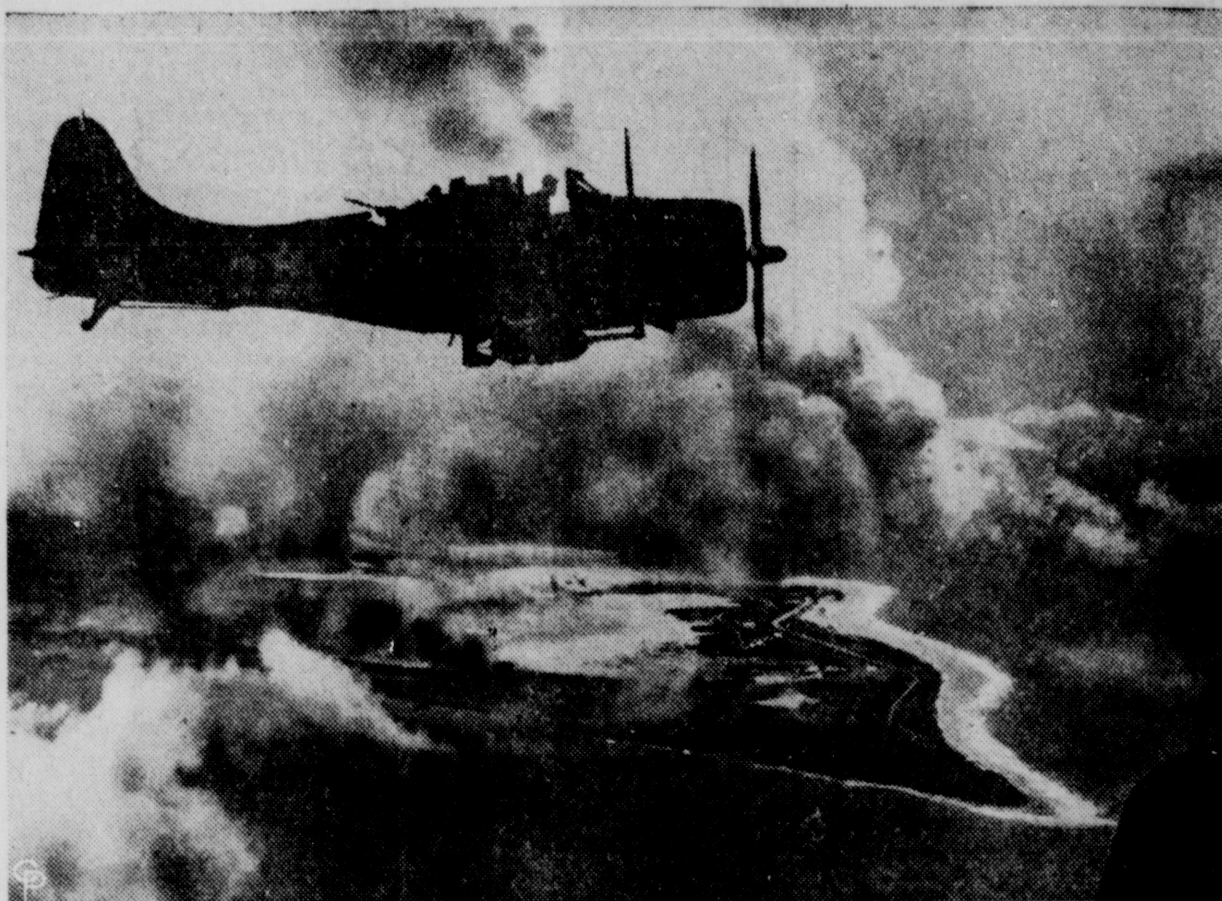

Men convicted include DeCamp W. Davis, 29, Greenfield Route 2, and Frank S. Myers, Jr., 22, Zanesville, Route 4, both of whom refused to report for physical examinations, and William R. Rambo, 22, Zanesville, for failure to report for induction.

Another Witness changed his mind, Judge Underwood was informed, reporting to the court that he had appeared before his draft board, was given physical examination by the army medical team and had failed to pass. Judge Underwood is studying his case.

John Wade Grubb and James Matthew Grubb of Circleville remain in Columbus city prison awaiting sentencing after being convicted Tuesday in Judge Underwood's court. Prison terms of five years or fines of $10,000 or both may be meted out to the brothers.

General Motors, Standard Oil and kindred companies to Europe.

They realized that their first job was to get a free hand from the U. S. Government, and if possible, place themselves just one step behind AMG (Allied Military Government) in liberated areas. Then they could jump right in to rehabilitate factories and re-establish banking connections in the Old World.

Several months ago, Eugene Thomas, head of the Foreign Trade Council, and former vice president of U. S. Steel, picked oil man Jimmy Moffett, friend of the President and former head of Federal Housing, to head the committee formed for this purpose. Thomas felt that Moffett could open doors in Washington, and learn the plans of the State Department and Foreign Economic Administration. The committee consisted of about twenty men who represented practically every American company with investments abroad.

FRICION DEVELOPS

But it wasn't long before Thomas and Moffett tangled. As chairman, Moffett thought he was running the committee. But one day, taking lunch with a committee member, Moffett was shown a confidential memo, nicely prepared with a blue binding.

"What's this?" he asked. He was told it was a memorandum which the committee had agreed on.

"But I have never seen this, and I have never been consulted. Am I the chairman of this committee or not?" Whereupon Moffett offered his resignation.

The breach was healed for the time being, and meanwhile, Moffett hired Howard Acton, former public relations director for the Home Loan Bank Administration, to do publicity for the Foreign Trade committee at a salary of $1,000 a month. When Thomas heard about this, he hit the ceiling. Acton resigned.

More friction came when Moffett discovered a sub-committee scouting around Washington, visiting minor officials of the Foreign Economic Administration. Moffett asked them why they didn't go to the top of FEA—to Leo Crowley. They replied that they didn't want to talk to Crowley because this would tip him off to the plans or private industry. So Moffett himself went to see Crowley, laid the committee's plans on the table, and came to a friendly agreement.

Meantime, Thomas complained that Moffett "thinks emotionally", and so Jimmy finally resigned.

Robert F. Loree, vice president of Guaranty Trust Company, was appointed in his place, and is now consulting with Treasury officials about the restoration of private U. S. business in Europe. Executive director of the organization is Edward L. Behr, Jr., son-in-law of Eugene Thomas.

One member of the organization summarized its aims in these words: "We feel we should be allowed to help write the peace treaties in the interests of U. S. industry."

CLARKSBURG GOES OVER TOP IN BOND CAMPAIGN

The village of Clarksburg, not far from the Pickaway county line in Ross county, is the first community in that county to go over the top in its Fourth War Loan campaign.

Clarksburg's goal was $55,154, and Hoyt Graham, drive chairman, declared Wednesday that $56,074.75 had been subscribed with more money to be collected. The splendid teamwork shown in the village in the War Bond campaign drew praise from Ross county drive chiefs.

Liberator bombers, one of which had been shot down by the British known today.The second Liberator, fully loaded with bombs, fell into a perpetual dive of 5,000 feet but was miraculously brought back under control and continued on a scheduled mission.The story about how two British Spitfire pilots shot down the first Liberator, also loaded with bombs, into the North sea was told by the Daily Express. This four-motored B-24 was abandoned by its American crew after trouble developed in three engines while the craft was enroute to a recent attack on northern France."It looked as if the vibration would tear the ship apart so we had to go over the side," Pilot

First Lieut. Richard J. Pettite, of Los Angeles was quoted as saying.After the crew members had parachuted down to the sea the Liberator flew around by itself off the English coast. Ninety minutes later Spitfires patrolling the area were ordered to shoot it down.
They gave the Liberator a full burst of cannon shells and watched the bomb-laden craft dive into the sea."Heaven Can Wait" was the name of the other Liberator which got into trouble but was redeemed.

MOSCOW WARNS LONDON

Reds Ready For Expansion
If England Perfects Power BlocWASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Soviet Russia and Great Britain are believed to be engaged in a momentous diplomatic game of high international power politics which may vitally affect the future destiny of the world.Authoritative diplomatic sources in Washington are convinced Moscow's move giving the 16 Soviet republics ostensible freedom of action in foreign affairs is a direct result of Great Britain's attempt to revive the balance of power system in the postwar world.Moscow is known to be deeply concerned by the recent trend in British thought as outlined by South African Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts and British Ambassador Lord Halifax. Smuts urged a closer British alliance with the smaller western European democracies while Lord Halifax called for a strengthening of Britain's ties with the dominions.

Fearful of Russia

It has been generally accepted that this move by Britain to strengthen its position in world affairs has been prompted by fear of Russian postwar domination of Europe. Smuts referred to Russia as the "Colossus of Europe."Moscow's new move is seen as a warning to the British that if they organize an anti-Russian balance of power bloc, Russia will expand the Soviet union into a Soviet commonwealth of nations.Each of the Soviet republics already enjoys a considerable measure of cultural freedom. By giving them the right to maintain their own military formations and seek separate diplomatic representation abroad, Moscow is seen opening the door for the inclusion of the Soviet union of other outside states, such as the Balkan and eastern European nations.

Strongest Power

With Russia expected to emerge from this war as the strongest power in Europe, it is considered far from inconceivable that Moscow could persuade a weak Poland, Czechoslovakia or Austria to join, in their own interests, the Soviet commonwealth of nations. Nor is the possibility overlooked that Russia might even bring into the Soviet commonwealth partitioned

YANKEE RAID ONE OF BIGGEST MADE ON HUNS

Great Nazi Naval Base May Have Received 1,000 Tons Of Bombs

Wilhelmshaven, the site of headquarters of the Germans' North Sea naval command, is situated on the northwest side of Jade bay. In addition, the Nazis have established a repair and fitting station for their submarine fleet at Wilhelmshaven.

Last night, an official air ministry communiqué revealed, speedy British Mosquito bombers attacked objectives in western Germany. It was the second successive night the plywood craft were over their targets.

Other British planes sowed mines in enemy waters. All the RAF craft returned safely.

Gains On Ground

On the ground two important enemy-held strongpoints—half a world apart—were threatened today by American advances. In Italy, the Yanks who smashed the German Gustav line imperilled the Nazi bastion of Cassino, while other American doughboys bettered their positions on Kwajalein in the Marshall Islands.

The break-through above Cassino on the central Italian battlefield was expected to precipitate against the expanding Allied bridgehead south of Rome. Indeed, the Nazis did strike strongly against the American and British amphibious forces but were repulsed, while Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's troops enlarged their area of control in this sector.

Simultaneously with official announcement of the gains below the Eternal City, Allied headquarters declared that on the main Fifth army front the fortified town of Cassino was seriously threatened. Greatest peril to the German garrison was the advance by masses of American and French forces north of the town.

Some advanced Yank spearheads were reported within 500 yards of Cassino, while counterattacks directed against the Fifth army flank were hurled backward. On the northern Italian front where the Allies were trying to drive forward on sectors 15 and 25 miles below Rome, the Germans and Anglo-Americans both strengthened their forces.

Sharp fighting continued to center about Cisterna, 25 miles below the Eternal City, and around Campoleone, 10 miles further north.

Allied aircraft continued to surge over both Italian battle areas, striking also at enemy communication lines throughout Italy and in the occupied Balkans.

Meanwhile, in the Central Pacific the Americans were firmly established on 12 islands of the strategic Marshall group. The fourth U. S. Marine division, untried less than a week ago, made its first victory a good one—being the first Allied force to wrest prewar Japanese territory from the enemy.

The leathernecks captured Roi island with its airfield, largest in the Marshalls, and drove the Japs into a tiny pocket on nearby Namur. While the Marines were scoring these highly-important gains, the doughboys of the Seventh infantry division were advancing on Kwajalein island, site of vital enemy naval installations.

All the islands which the Americans invaded are included in the Kwajalein atoll, largest in the archipelago. The Yanks went ashore under cover of the largest naval armada ever established, and with support of huge forces of carrier- and land-based aircraft.

Despite the large number of surface vessels risked in the operation, an official announcement revealed that none was lost.

Advance In Solomons

Farther to the southwest, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces scored additional gains against the Japs in the Solomons, on New Guinea and on New Britain. At least 34 more enemy planes were destroyed or damaged in another raid on much-battered Rabaul, and Allied ground forces pressed forward on Bougainville and in northeastern New Guinea.

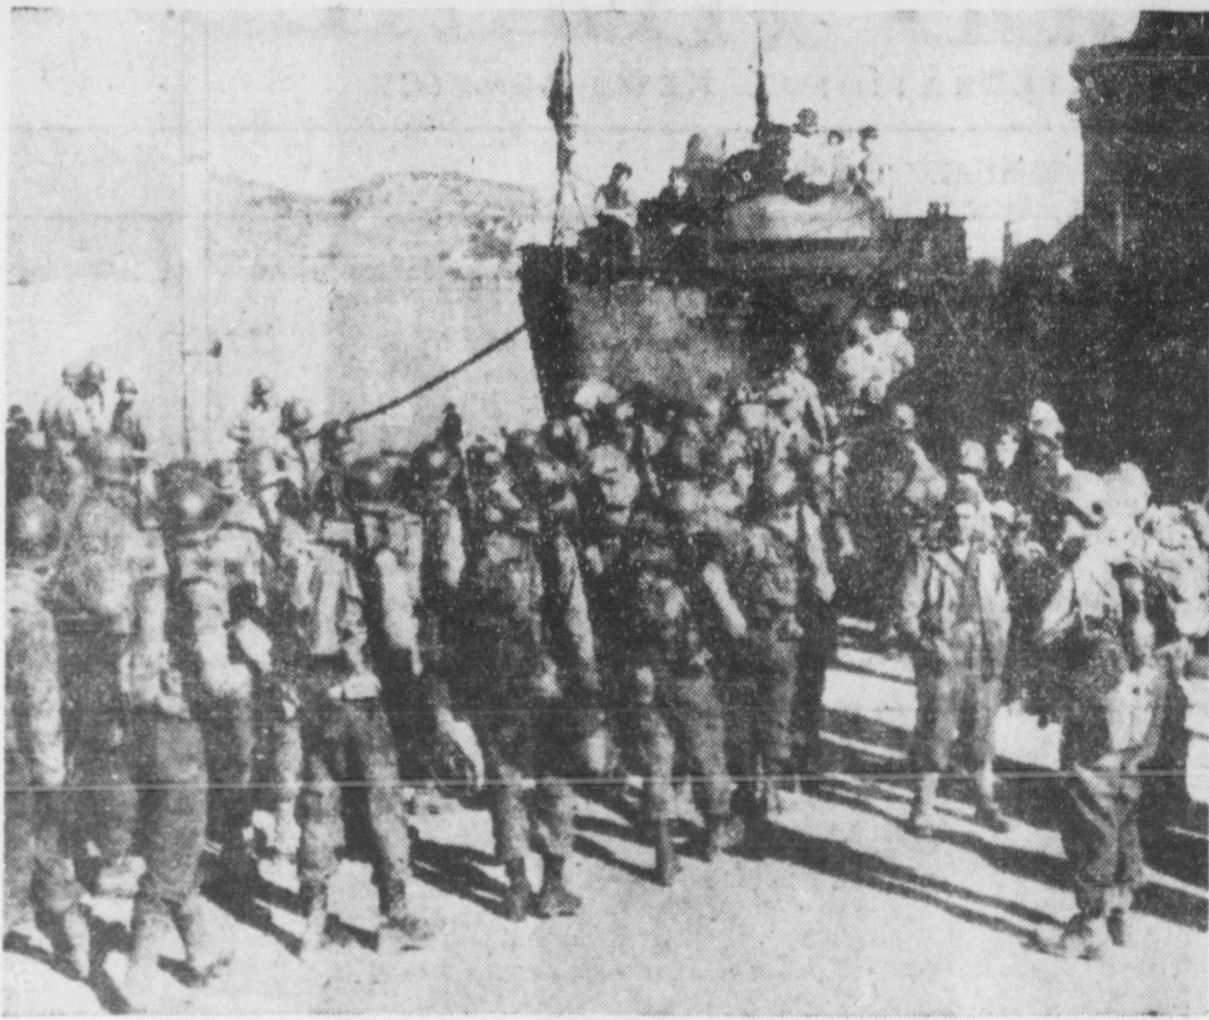

The Russian war was marked by a continued Red army advance against the enemy's Estonian stronghold of Narva, six miles west of the Estonian frontier. Three Soviet columns converged on the city, which was reported in Stockholm quarters to be under the siege guns of Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's artillery.

The Nazis sought desperately to make a stand, bringing reinforcements from the Baltic seaport of Tallinn, but Russian Stozhnikov divebombers and fighter planes hammered incessantly at the communications lines.

So serious did the Germans consider their positions in Estonia, that a general mobilization of the Estonian population was ordered.

Two small Nazi schooners were sent to the bottom of the Adriatic by United Nations coastal forces off the coast of Sliba island.

Frantic efforts to right the bomber at first were without effect. The air speed indicator hit 350 miles per hour.

Boles ordered his crew to bail out but during the 5,000-foot drop the crew was thrown about so badly that it was impossible for any to leave the plane.

Boles brought the craft out of its spin, crew and bombload intact. The plane, separated from its original formation, caught up with another formation and went in to bomb the target.

Airmen said after the incident that it was the first time they ever heard of men making such a spin in a fully loaded bomber and living to tell about it.

SPOUSE SLAYER ADMITS CRIME AFTER 13 YEARS

CHICAGO, Feb. 3—Authorities investigated today the story of a 43-year-old woman who walked into a police station and confessed that 13 years ago she killed her husband by pushing him from a second story window.

"My conscience has been bothering me; I have a confession to make," Mrs. Pauline Kretschmer told Desk Sgt. Joseph Mooney. Then she related that on August 3, 1931, she and her husband, Joseph Harbough, a chef, had a fight in their apartment. While he was standing in front of a window, she pushed him out, she told Sgt. Mooney. She said that when police arrived she told them her husband had committed suicide.

Fifteen senators—11 Democrats and four Republicans—joined in proposing the senate compromise which Rep. Worley (D) Tex., said was "fine, but already provided in my bill."

The senate offer first would permit state ballots from those states which comply with conditions set forth in the bill. In states not meeting these requirements the federal ballot would apply.

The senate compromise conditions for use of state ballots are that the states must by June 1 provide: Use of ballots without personal registration, printing of ballots at least 45 days in advance of the election and a limitation on weight of ballots, with envelopes, to not more than 12 ounces.

A United States ballot commission would certify on or before July 1 which states have failed to comply. Servicemen and women from states not meeting these requirements would receive the federal ballot covering only federal offices.

Further changes in the Green-Lucas measure would require that soldiers desiring a federal ballot apply for it themselves, and that voters qualifications be determined "in accordance with state law." It carries a congressional recommendation that the states themselves make provisions for absentee voting.

The state ballot bill of Rep. Ranking (D) Miss., in substance recommends to the various states that they facilitate absentee soldier voting in either primary or general elections and calls on the armed services to cooperate in transporting state ballots.

As the house arrived at the amendment point in its deliberations, the senate agreed to limit debate to a 20 minute speech on the bill, or a 20 minute speech on any amendment.

states of Germany, such as Bavaria.

There have been persistent reports that the Allied plan for the military conquest of Germany calls for the temporary occupation of a third of German territory by the Soviet armies. It is recognized this might well enable the Russians to impress the Soviet-controlled Germans with the advantages of joining the Soviet commonwealth.

Under the Soviet constitution, each of the Soviet republics is supposed to be a completely autonomous and sovereign state. There is nothing to prevent a non-Russian state from joining the Soviet union, providing Moscow approves.

U. S. Gravely Concerned

Official Washington is not inclined to blame the Soviets entirely for reacting as they have to the British move. Both sides are believed to be prompted by a defensive complex.

Nevertheless, the present balance of power maneuvering by both Britain and Russia has the American government gravely concerned.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull's idea is that the future security of the world should be achieved through establishment of a general international organization rather than through any balance of power arrangements. He believes the latter system would, as it has in the past, lead to the division of the world into spheres of rival influence.

Official Washington, therefore, is hoping that Britain and Russia can be talked out of their balance of power maneuvering and brought back into line with the American idea of a general security system. If not, it is feared American public opinion may not long support the idea of this country's participation in any world security system.

CARLILE BARRACKS, Pa.—Military training is an old story for Capt. Jacob O. Herzog of the U. S. Medical Corps. He formerly served with the Austrian and Polish armies.

SOLDIER HELD AFTER THREAT TO SHOOT CITY MAN

Corporal Raymond Azbell, 21, of Lancaster, home on furlough from Fort Bliss, Texas, was held at city prison Thursday on open charges after threatening Emanuel Hundley, York street, with a .32 caliber revolver. Police said Azbell called Hundley into a lavatory at the Haley Cafe at 1:30 a. m. Thursday after he became angered because the local man had danced with a girl friend from Lancaster.

After entering the lavatory, Hundley told Special Officers Carl Purcell and George Davis, the soldier who was in uniform pulled a revolver, pointed it at Hundley and told him to "get out, and quick." Hundley left the cafe and notified police.

As the patrolmen walked into the cafe, Azbell ran, but he was caught on South Scioto street back of the Gordon accessory store. Patrolman Davis said he had seen Azbell toss something that might have been the revolver into some buildings. After daylight Thursday, Service Director Clarence Helvering and Patrolman Alva Shasteen found the revolver on the roof of a shed. It was loaded with five cartridges and Azbell carried five more cartridges for the revolver in his pocket.

Police said that Hundley, who recently received a medical discharge from the army, had declined to file charges.

Police listed persons who were with Azbell as Jean Camp, Betty Hooker, Betty Sheets, Charles Tiller, Betty Sifer and Earl Gordon, all of Lancaster or near Lancaster.

The soldier's furlough papers said that he had been granted an 11-day furlough pass from Fort Bliss where he is training in an anti-aircraft outfit.

Police Chief W. F. McCrady said it hadn't been decided yet just what would be done with Azbell.

bonds to do so. "Don't wait for a solicitor," Mr. Will said, "go to your bank and let it be known that you want bonds."

The amount of money collected so far is a long way from the county's quota of $1,244,000.

The Pennsylvania railroad has allocated $10,000 in treasury savings notes, Series C, to the credit of the county.

"This allocation is in keeping," H. W. Schotter, treasurer, wrote, "with those that have been made to other counties and we believe the distribution to be fair and equitable. We trust that the allocation will be satisfactory and will assist you in reaching your quota."

Don Ehrigst, state treasurer, informed Mr. Will that $38,000 of a state purchase of $20,000,000 will be credited to Pickaway county's campaign. The money will be invested in certificates of indebtedness.

Bitter Fight On Food Subsidies Said To Prompt Penalty

he knew that plans for planting some crops in his state had been held up.

"I hope we can settle the matter by February 17," said Sen. Bankhead (D) Ala., leader of the anti-subsidy fight. "If the Commodity Credit Corporation is not continued they can't pay support prices. I do not think the delay in settling the subsidy matter, however, will cause any reduction in planting of crops."

"The subsidy matter will follow the soldier's vote bill."

Charge Hurled

Danaher charged the administration to put congress "over a barrel" by postponing the subsidy fight until near the deadline and then demanding action under an emergency plea. Bankhead voiced doubt that such a plan had been devised.

The senate generally is expected to pass the bill with an anti-subsidy "rider" which is sure to be vetoed. The issue then facing congress would be upholding or overriding the veto.

Sen. Maloney (D) Conn., renewed his plea for a subsidy allowance of one billion, 500 million dollars to be used to keep down consumers food prices for a year.

SCOUTS TO PUT DISPLAY IN BUSINESS DISTRICT

Boy Scout troop 121 of the Evangelical church is planning to start preparation for observance of scout week beginning next Monday by building a display of Boy Scout work in the south window of the Chicken Inn, South Court street. The scouts under direction of Robert Dean, scoutmaster, will put their interesting display in the window Thursday night.

A court of review for all boys of the city will be held Monday at the Evangelical church. The court will be in preparation for a Court of Honor to be held later in the week.

FIVE LEAVE FOR ARMY

Five Circleville and Pickaway county men left Thursday for Fort Thomas, Ky., to begin training in the army. The group was part of the January quota of draftees. Included were William Burget, Arthur R. Brewer, Russell J. Moats, Virgil P. Timmons and David L. Yates.

FLYING CANNON POURS OVERSEAS TO BLAST HUNS

BOSTON, Feb. 3—The most powerful "flying artillery piece" in the world is being sent overseas in increasing numbers for the coming invasion of western Europe.

The 75-mm. aircraft cannon is more than twice the size of the largest enemy aircraft weapon, and will do more than twice the damage, Col. J. C. Solberg, commanding officer of the Boston ordnance district, said today.

"This flying artillery piece," he said, "is not only giving the enemy plenty of trouble, but will also knock out any known tank, sink armored warships and destroy enemy gun emplacements."

The new cannon is more powerful than the field artillery piece most in use in the last war, Col. Solberg said.

PRIVATE AUTOS MISSING FROM MADRID STREETS

MADRID, Feb. 3—Practically no private automobiles were to be seen today on the streets of Madrid as a result of gasoline restrictions following the Allied suspension of oil shipments to Spain.

Occasional taxis and charcoal burning private vehicles were observed, but otherwise traffic was confined to food trucks and the cars of doctors and officials. Even some officials were forced to go to their offices afoot.

COUNCIL VOTES WAGE HOIST AT DISPOSAL PLANT

Council voted Wednesday evening to increase salaries of all employees of the disposal plant by $10 a month, the amount being agreed on in a committee meeting conducted prior to the regular council session. Plant employees had asked for larger increases.

Four men are affected, the acting superintendent and three operators.

Under the new schedule, the acting superintendent will draw $160 a month and the operators $135 a month.

The pay boost is listed as a bonus, effective from January 1, 1944, to December 31, 1944. If the schedule is to be followed after the end of 1944 a new ordinance will be necessary.

Operators at the plant declare that they are doing much more work than previously since the plant personnel is one man less than it was a year ago. Roy Hawks, acting superintendent, has pointed out to council that in addition to serving with the other operators in actual operation of the plant he has to serve as chemist, bookkeeper and superintendent. Even with his pay boost of $10 he will be receiving less than the job paid from the time the plant opened until July, 1942, when the superintendent's pay was reduced from $175 to $150.

ACTING MAYOR SENDS TWO GIRLS TO CITY JAIL

Acting Mayor John C. Goeller meted out jail commitments Wednesday evening to two Columbus girls who were charged by police with a statutory offense. They gave their names as Ruth Casto, 22, and Hazel Siders, 21, both listing Columbus addresses.

Mr. Goeller, who is serving in the absence of Mayor Ben H. Gordon, fined each girl $25 and costs and committed both to the county jail in default of payment.

Two soldiers from Lockbourne army air base who were arrested in a room in the New American hotel with the two girls early Wednesday were placed in custody of the Lockbourne provost marshal's office. They gave their names as Walter Seidel, 21, and Royston Soards, 37.

It is said that at least 20, and some say 20 to 40 leaves are necessary to produce a good apple.

Buckeyes Can Remain Well Up In Race By Knocking Off Two Contests

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 3.—A damper has been placed on the hopes of Purdue's steaming boiler-makers to continue undefeated in the Big Ten basketball race. The setback came with disclosure today that Center Bill Lodge is scholastically deficient in his Navy V-12 work and will be ineligible to play against Ohio State in the crucial two-game series at Columbus tomorrow and Saturday. The brilliant sophomore was high scorer in the team's early season games and has been floor man in Purdue's fast-breaking, hard-running game. Ohio State, with one defeat and five victories to date, can remain high in the title sweepstakes by capturing the set against Purdue.

ALVA BRADLEY'S COMPLAINT HIT BY GOTHAMITES

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The latest complaint from Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians, drew more criticism than support today from spokesmen for New York's three Major League baseball clubs. Bradley's statement that baseball ought to fold up rather than take a chance of deteriorating into a farce if the manpower situation becomes too acute, was not taken seriously by representatives of the Giants, Dodgers and Yankees.

Leo J. Bondy, vice president of the Giants, pointed out that Bradley expressed similar pessimism last year, and predicted that he wouldn't take a chance on suspending operations because Cleveland automatically would lose its league franchise. Branch Rickey, headman in the Dodger camp, expressed his sentiments by calling attention to a statement he made last year, in which he felt that it was baseball's duty to carry on. He declared it "was so good an answer now as it was then."

The president of the world-champion Yankees, Ed Barrow, refused to make any formal comment but indicated that he did not take any stock in the Cleveland owner's threat to suspend operation if backed to the wall by the manpower shortage.

Vander Meer's Summons To Service Brings Up Review of Fine Record

CINCINNATI, Feb. 3.—The assignment of Johnny VanderMeer to the United States Navy interrupts for the duration a baseball career that established the young southpaw as one of the game's premier pitchers. Johnny is the twenty-fifth member of the Cincinnati Reds to join the nation's armed forces.

Known wherever boys play baseball as the lad who pitched two successive no-hit games, Vandy for the last half dozen years has been one of the National League's foremost attractions.

But his fame does not rest solely on those historic no-hitters of 1933. That same year he won nine games in a row as the Reds raced to their only first division finish in a dozen years. For three seasons now he has paced the circuit in strikeouts, proving himself to be the loop's greatest whiff artist since Dazzy Vance.

About This And That In Many Sports

'Twould be fun to pick an all-star South Central league basketball team even before the season is ended. CHS has two games to play in the circuit, one at Washington C. H. Friday night and the other at Greenfield later on closing the South Central loop season

How would you like to have a team comprised of Leon Sims of CHS and Bobby Mercer of Greenfield at the forwards; Dave Daniel of Wilmington at center, and Junior Anderson of CHS and Ad Copeland of Wilmington at the guards? ... That would be a honey ... And there are other good boys in the league, too ... Tink Stanforth of Hillsboro would be No. 6 man ... He's in the army now, and was one of the most feared boys in the loop when he was inducted

Circleville high will compete in the district Class A tournament at Delaware, 18 teams competing there ... In district class B, Pickaway county teams will travel to Westerville ... Thirty-four teams will play there ... Pickaway county is expected to have three representatives in the tourney again, same as in previous years ... The tourney winner, the runner up and the winner of the consolation game will make the trip ... Pairings for the county tournament were to be made this afternoon in Superintendent McDowell's office ... Atlanta and Ashville are top heavy favorites to meet in the finals. If the superintendents put an okeh on seeding

The Atlanta team, which has not been tested a single time this year except in the 31-25 game it won from Pickaway last week at the Perry court, is back at it again tonight against the Pirates ... The two teams are meeting at the Pickaway school, and a big crowd of Circleville fans are expected to be there

COLUMBUS, Feb. 2.—Committees to select the outstanding basketball team in each of the National Collegiate Athletic Association districts to participate in the sectional tournaments, bringing to be announced today by H. G. Olsen, general tournament chairman.

The Eastern sectional, composed of the four teams selected from districts east of the Mississippi River, will be held at Madison Square Garden Thursday, March 23 and Saturday March 25. The Western sectional, bringing together the four teams selected from districts west of the Mississippi, will be held at Kansas City, March 24 and 25. The two sec-

JOHNNY VANDERMEER, perennally one of the league's best clubs. He has decided them 14 times against only six reverses. In all-star competition VanderMeer has been superb. He has worked an out less than nine innings of all-star games, and has held the haughty American leaguers to one run, and that one unearned. He started the string with three shutout innings in the 1938 game, repeated the trick in the 1942 affair, and saw the only run trickle over the plate in last Summer's engagement on a wild throw. He has fanned 11 men in this classic competition, a mark equalled only Carl Hubbell.

Vandy was purchased by the Reds after a remarkable year with Durham of the Piedmont league in 1936. In that circuit he won 19 and lost six and rolled up the unheard-of strikeout mark of 295 in 214 innings.

His first start as a Redleg was in a night game at Cincinnati on May 19, 1937, against the Boston Braves. John that night gave an inkling of things to come when he whiffed 11 Braves, but three errors by a rookie infielder cost him the game, 3 to 1.

Bill McKeehin took VanderMeer in hand the next season, and the results are known to all who follow baseball. His blazing fast ball made him one of the league's best attractions.

But like all young southpaws Johnny had trouble with his control, and in 1939, after a stretch of erratic pitching, he went back to Indianapolis to polish his style and work his way back to the Reds' great corps of moundsmen. Since that time he has been their leading left-hander.

We had the strange case of the Sammy Angott-Beau Jack 10-round over-the-weight match last week. It was called a draw and majority opinion around the ring-side seemed agreed on the justice of this verdict. However, three blind mice couldn't have been much farther apart in the scoring.

One judge favored Angott by seven rounds to three; the other picked Beau Jack six rounds to four; the referee split it down the middle, awarding five rounds to each fighter.

This is not the first such occurrence here of late, nor is it likely to be the last in close fights, but there should be some way to bring the gents who have the say a little closer together. We need a genius to study the thing and clarify what constitutes a margin of victory. In New York, decisions are based on the number of rounds won by each fighter to greater extent than in some sections where a preponderance of points weighs heavily.

One thing about officiating that might lead to carelessness is that the judges are virtual nonentities. Their names are announced before the bout, but not a half dozen spectators out of nearly 20,000 would be able to pick them out at the ringside and how they voted is never made public to the arena mob, right there on the scene.

Mr. Bill Corum, one of our better sports writers and a denizen of the ringside through many years, has an idea. He suggests that the ballots of the judges be read over the public address system to the spectators.

BIRD DOG CLUB SETS MARCH 9 FOR NEXT EVENT

Pickaway County Bird Dog club has set March 9 as the date for its Spring field trials. Location for the event has not yet been decided.

The event will be divided into two divisions, an all age stake and a derby stake.

Ralph McDill is president of the club and Theodore Huston is its secretary.

tional winners will meet at the Garden the night of Tuesday, March 28 for the NCAA championship.

The selection committees in each of the eight districts will meet near the completion of the current campaign and select the outstanding team in the district which will be eligible to compete in the sectional contests.

DERBY WILL BE FOR HOME TOWN

Matt Winn Says Tickets Not Available To Any Outside Persons

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 3.—The 70th running of the famous Kentucky Derby next May 6 will be another home-town, street car affair, as last year's was, Col. Matt J. Winn announced today.

Men and women of the armed forces may benefit from this ruling, however, providing they live in the Louisville area.

Col. Winn said if persons outside the state wished to perpetuate their right to buy boxes for the 1945 derby they might do so by purchasing boxes this year, but only on condition they donate the boxes for use of persons in military service in Louisville or nearby.

This will be the only exception to the rule of not selling tickets to anyone outside the general Louisville area, Col. Winn declared.

FIGHT SCORING GETS A-TAKING OVER THE COALS

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—If things continue around here in the prize-fight officiating business as they have been in recent semesters we are likely to wind-up with either a new set of scoring rules or a new set of officials. Perhaps a dash of each would help. Unless one of our gladiators gets himself stiffened to preclude the chance of a decision on points, the wisest procedure for the spectators is to head quickly for the exits and avoid the confusion bound to follow the edict of the referee and two judges. Somebody is going to start throwing things one of these nights.

Youth Canteen Group Organizes, Names Dean As Committee Chief

Cincinnati's Youth Canteen organization became an official body Wednesday evening when members of a general committee appointed by the city's service clubs to conduct all preliminary work in order to get the youth movement under way organized by choosing its officers.

The general committee is one designated by the various service clubs, each being represented in the organization.

Other organizations of Cincinnati and Pickaway county are being issued an invitation to participate in the Youth Canteen movement, an open meeting being held in offices of the Ralston Furina Co. Thursday, February 10, with lodges, societies, clubs and other organizations being urged to send delegations.

ASHVILLE

Ashville Temple 366, Pythian Sisters, held its regular meeting Tuesday evening with nineteen members present. After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. Groundhog had his day today and locally he didn't see his shadow. According to tradition, the groundhog awakens each February 2, emerges from his cozy den, and looks over the situation. If he sees his shadow, he's supposed to decree six weeks more of winter weather and dash back into his hole in the ground. But, if he doesn't see his shadow, then spring is supposed to be just "around the corner." We understand that in some parts of Ohio, the sun shone a part of the day; so, no matter what follows the superstition will be carried out. At any rate we hope the ensuing weather pleases everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Leatherwood have purchased the Dan Wine property now occupied by the Glenn Leatherwood family.

A. B. Cooper, well-known Ashville oil and gasoline distributor, suffered a broken arm in a fall at his home.

The Sophomore class reports a bond sale of $3,000 to W. G. Cain of South Bloomfield. This gives the class an excellent chance of making their quota of $10,000 in sale of War Bonds and stamps.

It is reported that the Boy Scouts are to begin work within a few days on their Honor Roll for Ashville boys in the service.

Hearing Jud Lanman and Boyd Stout discuss the work being done by the Cincinnati Junior Chamber of Commerce makes one feel that there are many things we could do here in Ashville to improve our village if we had some organization to sponsor and promote these activities. Among other things our baseball diamond and quarter-mile track, once the best in Central Ohio, are in need of attention if they are to be usable in a few years. Little or nothing has been done in recent years to maintain or improve either. This seems like a project for our energetic young generation to tackle, since they will benefit most from its completion.

At Revival

THE Rev. Merle Holcomb, above, pastor of the Bremen United Brethren church, will be the evangelist for special revival services opening Sunday night at the Pleasant View Evangelical church of the Stoutsville Evangelical charge. Mrs. Merle Holcomb will conduct the young people's meetings, and Mrs. Harold Dutt, wife of the host pastor, will have charge of the music. Meetings will be held each night except Saturday through Sunday February 20. Young people's service will be at 7:15 and the evangelistic rites at 7:45.

ACTIVE MARKET FEATURES LOCAL STOCK AUCTION

An active market with receipts heavy and prices good marked the weekly auction Wednesday of the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative association.

Good steers and heifers brought a top of $15.10, 212 head of stock being offered.

Hog receipts were not quoted, but price paid for 180 to 200 pound stock was up to $13.75.

RATION BOARD GETS CALL TO DISTRICT MEET

Pickaway county rationing board is being asked to attend a sub-district OPA meeting February 10 at East high school, Columbus, starting at 7:30 p. m. at which time closer cooperation between various panels of the rationing boards and the district office will be stressed.

The meeting is being called by Inwood Smith, OPA operations executive.

The meeting will be in the form of a clinic with problems of the various organizations to be discussed.

Other OPA units attending the East high meeting in addition to Pickaway county will be all the Franklin county boards and the Fayette county board.

George D. McDowell, chairman of the Pickaway county board, is urging a full attendance by members of his various panels.

BREHM OPPOSES FDR

Congressman Walter Brehm of Logan, representative of the 11th Ohio district, was one of Ohio's 17 congressmen who opposed the White House move this week for a roll call vote on the question of a federal ballot for members of the armed services.

The roll call move was defeated 233 to 160.

MAYOR REFUSES TO OKEH BILL OF POLICEMAN

Despite the fact that Mayor Ben H. Gordon declined to sign the council ordinance providing payment of $300 to Miller Fissell, Seyfert avenue, for use of his motorcycle, police radio and equipment during the time he was on the police force, the measure has become legal and Fissell may collect any time the money is in the general fund.

Council approved the legislation January 19 after lengthy discussion and argument concerning legality of the claim.

Mayor Gordon informed members of the council that while he did not intend to veto the measure he would not approve it.

In a notation read at council meeting Wednesday, the mayor said:

"I am returning this ordinance without approving the same as there is no contract on file authorizing this expenditure."

The measure became legal January 29, 10 days after the ordinance was passed since the mayor did not veto it.

Mr. Fissell filed his claim after council debated for 10 months over whether the money was due him. The bill was finally approved.

Mr. Fissell is now on a year's leave of absence from his police department duties. The year expires in March. He has not informed city officials whether he will return to the department or whether he will continue to work with his father, A. E. Fissell, in operation of the Caddy Miller men's shop.

Mayor Gordon did not appear at the council meeting, being expected home Friday or Saturday from New York where he has been for the last several days.

MISS McEWING TO TAKE PLACE OF CITY AUDITOR

Miss Charlotte McEwing, who has been in charge of disposal plant rental collections for the last several years, has been appointed by Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, to do her work when she goes to a hospital soon for surgery. Miss Young was given authority by council at its last meeting to name a deputy to fulfill her duties when she is absent.

The auditor's bond will cover both positions, and arrangements for paying Miss McEwing will be handled by the auditor without expense to the city.

Miss McEwing will also continue her services as sewage disposal collector.

THE GREAT SHOW-DOWN

"VENGEANCE is mine, I will repay, saith the Lord."

The Japanese have perpetrated monstrous crimes against innocent men in the Pacific, and the Nazi Germans in populous and civilized Europe have been almost as bad. In the establishment of a decent world, men may be co-workers with God as they were of old. Is it not a part of the divine plan when they unite, as great nations are now doing, to destroy barbarians who themselves would destroy a humane civilization?

The revelations from Washington of the full wickedness of the Japanese assaults, against a world seeking cooperation rather than conquest, leave no doubt as to where intelligent people will stand in this critical war. It is a greater crusade than mankind has yet seen, and humanity will win, through the sacrificial efforts of brave and intelligent men.

It is a familiar American saying that "you can't have it both ways," but we might be wrong about it in politics, at least. Canada, for instance, had a Conservative party which wasn't doing very well, so some enterprising leaders had a brilliant idea. They renamed it the "Progressive Conservative" party, thus playing both ends against the middle. And they did better with that set-up, although they failed to win. Next time, if they are still facing both ways, they might put it over.

It might add to the interest of the American political situation if the same procedure were adopted in this country. A "Republican Democratic" ballot, for instance. There really was a set-up much like that in the early part of the last century, and for a couple of elections it was quite a chore for the voters to figure out which side they were on, and why.

PUZZLED NAZIS

A neat little story of German mentality came from the Rapido river the other day. In an American attack, a Nazi outfit was rounded up without fighting. They explained it as follows:

"They told us to stay in our dugouts if you attacked with tanks. If you attacked with infantry, we were supposed to get out and fight. But you attacked with tanks and infantry at the same time, so we didn't know what to do, and surrendered." It wasn't fear, but mental puzzlement. And such inability to think and act for themselves, as Americans do in such cases, will be a factor in Nazi defeat.

U. S. Steps Up Submarine War on Japanese Shipping
B-29 to Put Philippines, East Indies in Air Range

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The Japanese have become more proficient at eluding and fighting off American submarines, but enemy sinkings are expected to continue at a rate harmful to their extended supply lines because more and more United States overseas craft are moving into the Pacific.

America has paid a small price for her successes against Jap shipping. About a dozen United States subs have been sunk or were reported missing while on war patrols in the Pacific. There is absolutely no truth in Jap claims that 160 American subs have been sunk to date.

U. S. Underseas American submarines, however, have blasted more than 500 Japanese vessels of all types, including warships. While many are listed as damaged, they can be classed as out of service for some time because of the damaging effects of torpedo explosions.

More than anything else, this campaign against Jap shipping has slowed down the enemy's entire war effort. It keeps the Japs from sending reinforcements and supplies to their front lines and prevents them from exploiting fully the natural resources they seized after Pearl Harbor.

There is no indication that Japanese anti-submarine tactics will become a major menace in 1944 to the Allies.

MORE FREQUENT AND HEAVIER air attacks against Japanese positions in the Netherlands East Indies are indicated. Some assaults already have been made by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen as far west as Java, but they have been at almost the extreme range of Flying Fortresses and Liberators.

Once the super-bomber—B-29—gets into action, sometime this

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

KIMMEL, SHORT MAY BE CALLED

WASHINGTON — Defense lawyers for Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling and the 32 other propagandists under indictment for "sedition" have a "cute trick" up their sleeves when the case is brought to trial early in April.

They plan to call as witnesses Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and General Walter C. Short, who were retired after the Pearl Harbor attack.

One of the "conspiracy" charges against the 33 defendants is that they circulated literature trying to fix the blame for Pearl Harbor on the President. It was claimed in publications put out by Mrs. Dilling and others under indictment that the President and his war and navy secretaries "invited the attack" by the Japs by failing to prepare our defenses at Pearl Harbor.

The indictments returned by the grand jury charged that the defendants were not motivated by patriotic ideals in making such charges—and the record of the grand jury proceeding leaves little doubt about this.

However, some people feel that Kimmel and Short weren't entirely to blame for the Pearl Harbor tragedy, but were made the goats. So far, they have been denied a court martial. Therefore it will be an odd quirk of fate if they are given their first chance to talk at a "sedition" trial. Lawyers for Mrs. Dilling et al. have every intention of calling them.

James J. Laughlin, Washington attorney engaged by defendant Smythe, author of a publication called "Our Common Cause," declared in reply to questions:

"You're darned right I plan to call Kimmel and Short to the stand, although I don't know that they will be allowed to testify. They may be shut up. However, if this happens, I'll demand a recess of the trial. Under the Constitution, we have every right to demand to hear the full story of the Pearl Harbor disaster from Kimmel and Short in open court."

DEAF U. S. AMBASSADOR

If you can get Bolivian General David Toro, now in Washington, to talk, you can understand why we were caught by surprise by the Bolivian revolution. He says, with a flash of the eye, that the coup would never have taken place if the United States had had a better ambassador on the scene.

According to Toro, the U. S. embassy in La Paz has a number of wide-awake officers, but they have been prevented by Ambassador Pierre Boal from making the necessary contacts to keep well informed. And Boal himself is so punctilious and protocol-minded that he can't stoop far enough to get his ear to the ground.

BIG BUSINESS EYES EUROPE

Here is the inside story of how big business is watching the advance of the Allied armies in order to restore foreign investments and industrial operations as soon as possible.

Thus far, progress has been rather disappointing. However, the National Foreign Trade Council, in New York, set up a committee to pave the way for the return of (Continued on Page Ten)

DIET AND HEALTH

Right Ways To Instill Good Habits In Child

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I KNOW OF no department of medicine which has made more improvement than the science of treating and training children. A recent book called Modern Ways With Children, by Dr. Elizabeth

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

B. Hurlock (published by McGraw Hill Book Company, New York), explaining the most up-to-date methods is therefore welcome.

It deals not so much with the technique of physical treatment—such as diet, bathing, clothing, feeding—as with the management of the child's mind and emotions in regard to such fundamentals as growth, eating, sleep, speech, habits, discipline, clothes, etc.

About one of the problems which confront many mothers—food likes and dislikes, Dr. Hurlock says: "Studies of food dislikes in children have revealed that vegetables and cereals top the list. Most children like meat, potatoes, bread, and desserts of all kinds; but when it comes to vegetables and cooked cereals, they revolt. In most instances, urging the child to eat some food 'because it is good for him' or 'will make him grow' is the basis of the trouble."

Improper Cooking

"Another offensive factor is the improper cooking of vegetables and cereals. Too often the flavor of the vegetable is gone and the taste flat because of overcooking or the use of too much water. In too many households the cereal is lumpy, and the child revolts against it not because of the taste but because of the texture."

"Now, a word about food that the child likes, especially his 'favorite food.' This is generally something that he is given only on special occasions and then in small amounts. The child likes this or that food not so much because of its taste as because of the circumstances under which it has been eaten. If he were allowed to select his own food, the chances are that he would have no marked taste likes or dislikes. He would, in time, learn to dislike food that was not good for him, because of the uncomfortable after effects. The chances are also that he would sooner or later learn to like food that is good for him because he would feel much better after eating it."

Good Habits of Childhood

Here are the good habits of childhood:

"Eating habits, such as chewing with the mouth closed, good table manners, proper speed of eating, and adequate mastication of food before it is swallowed."

"Sleep habits, including going to sleep within a short time of retiring, relaxing instead of tossing around, waking at a set time, sleeping throughout the entire night, without having to get up to urinate, going to sleep without a light in the room or without a toy to play with in bed, and sleeping without dreams of any sort."

"Punctuality in all routine activities, such as meals, getting up and going to bed, dressing, going to school, getting ready to go out to play with friends, or meeting others at planned times."

"Speech habits, as correct pronunciation and grammatical forms and a large enough vocabulary not to have to rely upon slang or the use of gestures."

"Cheerfulness as a habitual attitude, even under difficult circumstances."

"Courtesy to strangers, as well as to members of the family, regardless of class distinctions."

"Orderliness and care of personal possessions, including clothes, bathroom equipment, books, and playthings."

Yankee Senorita

BY LORENA CARLETON

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

Mallory's sudden inward vow to marry Carlos and give up her work did not fit from her mind as soon as she had said it. Quite the opposite. It gathered strength with each new obstacle that confronted her. And there were several.

"Where are you steering me?" she demanded now of Sandy.

She had expected to go into the dim auditorium, walk down a side aisle, from there go back of the boxes and find her way to the stage.

Her accompanist said, "I'm trying to find the theatrical director's office to find out where we're getting put."

"I shall show you to the director's office," spoke up Armando. "I know exactly where it is, though the path leading there is intricate. But I know everything about this tremendous building. And about everything else, his demeanor implied."

"We're not having a stage rehearsal today," Sandy was explaining to the singer, as they trailed the Mexican boy. "A couple of other Americans are having their stage rehearsal today. Setting lights and curtain cues."

Other Americans! That information shot through the thought of the blond girl like a stab of pain. She realized she never once had thought of sharing even the Palace of Fine Arts with others. While following Armando, she found time to glance at the stage. A lean young man with a prominent nose was exercising. A small girl moved toward him with a rolling walk.

"Ballet dancers!" sniffed Mallory. "I'd recognize that silly waddling duck walk anywhere. Who wants to look at ballet dancers?" Her indignation was touched with jealousy.

Sandy grinned, knowing the girl had formed an absurd ownership of Mexico and its gorgeous theater that would make her interest faint. The ballet dancers had assured him of that.

They were in the backstage area now. Armando still in advance. "The director is situated right beneath the huge center dome," he told his two followers.

Gone now was the "front elegance of marble, of velvet and gold, of native woods, of thick carpets underfoot, and of heaven-striving ceilings. They wound through narrow hallways, went through dull looking doors and up steps. Always steps."

"I should think they'd have an elevator in this building."

"They do, señorita," said Armando, still climbing. "But, it has been condemned."

"Then they should have another," she pouted.

"Now, now," corrected Sandy, "such fussing over a bit of climbing doesn't sound like Mallory Baker of the famous lung power."

"The building sucks," said Armando, and throws the elevator out of shape. The señorita, amended Sandy, "is feeling her temperament."

"Ah, smiled Armando, striding on. "Perhaps she needs the ears popped," he said seriously.

"If only Tod could hear that!"

Mallory Baker did not reply. She now was angry over this visit to the director's office. Kow-towing! It was not the proper reception for one of her fame. Not that she would have minded walking a few steps over thick rugs to greet the man. But this was too much! And he, no doubt, was sitting comfortably in his office chair trying to figure out some method of being two hours late for an appointment, merely to keep up the custom of that Latin procrastination.

She was wrong. The director was back of a work-filled desk, from where he leaped to bestow an attentive greeting to expert English. Latham and Roberts, the American reporters, were there also, and with them a third fellow, carrying a camera. All were staring, as were the three stenographers back of typewriters.

Mallory nodded toward the director's desk, with its photographs, miniature stage sets, music, press clippings, letters and telegrams.

"Looks like New York,"

"That, in keeping with so many other things in Mexico, had no connection with the girl's previous opinions. If she'd thought at all concerning her appearance in the city she had been largely condescending. She would be sensational, naturally. But she also had figured she would be the only attraction. To be crowded in with many attractions, not with her name and drawing power perhaps, but with enough importance to keep a director and three energetic stenographers busy, was a definite jolt to Mallory Baker."

The theatrical director did not even accompany them. He gave instructions and a key to Armando. Again the singer began to march, this time with Latham and Roberts and Lopez, the cameraman added to her entourage.

Latham said, as they walked along, "Lopez wants some art for Hoy. Similar to your better weekly picture magazines in the States."

The group dissolved into single file to squeeze past a stage backdrop lying flat on the floor. Painters were putting on the sky in large wet splashes of blue. Mallory and her retinue came together again.

"Not too strong on dignity," specified Latham. "This is for the masses."

"And we want a story," added Roberts. "Hope you've been doing something exciting. This story must have some life."

The singer finally answered the American reporters. "Well, boys, outside of having spotted a couple of murderers and fallen in love with the best looking man I've ever seen in my life, I've had little excitement in Mexico. She knew they would not believe her."

They chuckled politely and said in unison, "Seriously, Miss Baker?"

Armando stepped back proudly and motioned all the others into the rehearsal room. It was a cavernous hall, barren except for a few iron chairs and an extremely old upright piano. Mallory was angry all over again.

She flounced to the aged instrument and quickly plunked a half-dozen keys. "Needs tuning," she announced viciously. She pounded a few more, so incensed over discordant tones that she did not know Lopez had snapped her.

Sandy pushed her aside, sat down and began experimenting with the keyboard himself. And with pedals. There were two more on an usual one of the five produced a strident banjo effect, the second extra offered a tinkling mandolin. Sandy began playing grand opera, added the beer tavern effects of those imitated instruments and convulsed Mallory. Hilarious good humor replaced the sullenness on her face. Lopez snapped another picture.

The longer Mallory practiced, the more she realized she needed practice. Not that she sounded bad. Even at her poorest Mallory Baker was good. But she did not like being at her poorest. When she opened her mouth she wanted the sounds to delight her as well as her listeners.

There was no doubt of her listeners being delighted. Latham, Roberts, Lopez, Armando, of course, even Sandy—all were intent. Even the warming-up exercises, the two little slow opening numbers to "oil the voice" as if it were a motor—they had not bored her small audience. The two American reporters seemed to have forgotten another appointment that they had mentioned to Mallory. They now were two hours and five minutes late for it. Yet they sat, wearing the same Latin complacency as Lopez, who long ago had packed his camera.

The girl was singing "A Little Voice I Hear" from the "Barber of Seville," a glittering number with its rapid arpeggios and fast scales. There was silence for a moment, broken finally by Latham.

"When?" His indignation was whistled softly. "Let's go, fellows. She can't be any better and I don't want the spell broken. I took her hand. 'What a dame! What a dame!'"

"Come to cocktails this evening," she said on the spur of the moment. "I'll have Richard Blythe, another American, and Manuella and Carlos."

Latham's brows lifted. "Manuella? Manuella and Carlos are of the old aristocracy, my pretty. Haven't you learned yet that they don't mix with the common herd?"

"You were mixed at the interview."

The absurdity of Latham's obviously serious statement stayed with the girl's thoughts during all her afternoon practice. But it left her completely when she reached her apartment at the Montecito. Only one thing was in her mind, one horrible thing. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon Prism still was sleeping.

One-Minute Test

1. How much of a damaged dollar bill is needed to redeem it for full value?
2. What four states form the corners of the United States?
3. What was the kingfisher formerly called?

Words of Wisdom

Great works are performed, not by strength, but by perseverance. He that shall walk with vigor, three hours a day, will pass, in seven years, a space equal to the circumference of the globe.—John 20.

Hints on Etiquette

It is not courteous or wise to force your own ideas of dress upon your children. Guide their taste, do not impose your own upon them.

Today's Horoscope

The person who has a birthday today should be married early in life to someone born in January, June or October. You are kind, generous, good-natured, have excellent self-control and keep your own counsel. You are fond of the out-of-doors, and love pets and animals. Strange, unexpected and yet favorable events follow you in the next 12 months. Be neither confounded nor dismayed, as ultimate gain will ensue. This will be truly a memorable year for you. The child born today will be remarkable in many ways, most original, informative, inventive and ingenious. Renown is highly probable.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. Five-eighths.
2. Maine, Florida, California and Washington.
3. The halcyon.

For Thursday, February 3

THE ASTRAL influences ruling on this day are fraught with certain dangers and losses that may be avoided by shrewdness, precaution and systematic attention to details and the regulation of practical procedure according to the accepted methods and routines. Any careless, impractical or over clever gestures might exact penalties or losses. The extravagant use of assets, or personal resources, through excess or prodigality would defeat the best laid plans and most desirable propositions. Slow but sure might be the motto, with "the other fellow" taking the chances. In public stick to rules and codes.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter some perplexing and difficult situations, which call for shrewd, systematic and sound working out of plans rather than ill-advised, showy, or extravagant use of funds or energies. These might be squandered to no constructive purpose, and with definite peril to some encouraging opportunities or to accumulated resources. It might be well to take time to consider the most practical means to desired ends, with keen and well-developed insight to basic situations. Public or community well-being also demand consideration, with study not snap judgment. Be patient in crises.

A child born on this day may have much constructive ability and wish for sound objectives. Although it may play with its opportunities, by extravagance, prodigality or folly. This may apply to funds and physical energies.

Bible Class Sponsors Presbyterian Project

Mrs. H. N. Stevenson Reads Paper on Peace

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Westminster Bible class of the Presbyterian church met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, Wayne township, with 15 members present. Mrs. Howard Newell Stevenson interested the class members with the splendid paper, "The Peace for Which We Fight," that she had prepared for the Child Conservation league.

Mrs. Carl Kennedy requested the class to sponsor the project of purchasing 250 new hymnals for the church. Mrs. John Hulce, class president, appointed Mrs. Orin W. Dreisbach, Mrs. Will Mack and Mrs. J. B. Stevenson as a committee to supervise the work.

Mrs. Hulce opened the meeting with a timely poem. Mrs. Mack conducting the devotional service. Mrs. Charles Smith acted as secretary and Mrs. Mack, treasurer, both officers being absent.

Mrs. Walter Downing read a letter from her son, Thomas, now in army service, telling of receiving the Christmas letter from the class. She also told of various experiences her son has had with the armed forces.

Mrs. Hulce announced the nominating committee that is to report a slate of officers for the coming year. The committee is comprised of the last three presidents of the class, Mrs. Hulce, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Dreisbach. Election will be held at the March session. Plans for the meeting includes a covered dish supper with the officers of the class as hostesses.

Mrs. Stevenson, assisted by Mrs. Mack, Mrs. Downing and Miss Ethel Kiger, served tea and assorted cookies during the closing social hour.

Emmett's Chapel W. S. C. S. Twenty-five members and guests gathered Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Harry Wright, Pickaway township, for the regular meeting of Emmett's Chapel W. S. C. S. Mrs. E. C. Wilkins joined Mrs. Wright as a hostess for the occasion.

Mrs. B. W. Young read several interesting letters from boys stationed at Camp Breckenridge telling of their pleasure in the Christmas boxes sent them by the society. The society sent a large number of boxes filled with Christmas gifts to the post to be given to men known to be without families and who would not otherwise receive remembrances at the holiday season. This was the second year for the project, the names of the men being furnished through the assistance of Colonel Harry D. Jackson.

Mrs. Clarence Maxson conducted a fine devotional service. Plans were made for an apron and food sale for the Saturday preceding Easter. The special collection for the afternoon was comprised of pennies equal to the

THE heir apparent, to make a play in words, will not be apparent at all, when this beautiful dinner dress is a lady-in-waiting's costume. Just as comfortable, far more becoming than a loose coat, long evenings at home or neighborhood with friends will be more pleasant if a model like this is the uniform of the evening.

Both bodice and skirt adjust themselves to fit without any tedious sewing for alteration. The style is classic and the gown has years of usefulness after the baby's birthday is past. Colors are lovely, and include lime green, aquamarine and Wedgewood blue, black or navy... all in sheer crepe.

West High street. Plans were made to do sewing for the Red Cross and mending for Berger hospital as the materials are available.

Preceding the business and social meeting, Mrs. Stoffer served an excellent lunch. Mrs. Loring Evans will be hostess at the March session.

Two Hostesses Entertain
Honoring Miss Mary Phillips, whose marriage to Donald Coleman of Chillicothe will take place February 13, Miss Dorothy Jane Yurko and Miss Margie Great-house entertained at a party and miscellaneous shower at the Yurko home in Chillicothe. "See-ability" keeps young eyes bright

1 IT'S EASIER TO READ when sitting up straight with light falling fully upon reading matter—without shadows or harmful glare! This increases "See-ability", protects eyes.

2 WITH NORMAL VISION, the recommended distance between eyes and close work ranges from 14 inches for children to up to 18 inches for adults.

3 LOOKING UP PERIODICALLY at different objects around the room for a moment or two will relieve delicate muscles and be restful to the eyes.

Wartime Lighting Suggestions

- Clean lamp bowls and lamp bulbs frequently to get from 25% to 30% more light from lamps you have.
- Use white shades or shades with white linings, re-paint 'em if necessary. Dark shades waste light.
- Avoid direct glare from lamp bulbs or bowl by using shades that are deep enough and big enough.
- Place each lamp so it puts no glare on the eyes of either person using it.
- Arrange lamps and furniture so each lamp can serve two or more people, if possible.
- Tilt work or reading to the angle that gets rid of reflected glare, try it; you can see the difference.
- Sit close enough to the lamp to get all the help it can give the eyes. A difference of a few inches means 50% less light.
- Have eyes examined by a competent eye-sight specialist. Good light helps make seeing easier; does not correct eye defects.
- Turn off lamp you are not using. This is one way you can help in the nation's program to conserve materials.

Obituary

Elita May Cryder Kendall was born at Tallon, Ohio, the daughter of Isaac and Ellen Wolford Cryder, February 2nd, 1872. Departed this life, Thursday, January 20th, 1944 at 10:15 p. m. at her home in Jackson township. Her wish was to enter into eternal rest if she could not get well. All that loving hands could do was to ease her suffering. March 13th, 1892 she was united in marriage to Carey Kendall of Ross county. This union was blessed with nine children. Three daughters preceding her to the great beyond. Minnie, Nellie and Rose Bartley, wife of Jerry Bartley of Washington township. She leaves to mourn her departure, husband, four sons and two daughters. Mrs. Eleanor Brown, Springfield; Mrs. Kathryn Vandagriff and Ivan Kendall of Circleville; William of Jackson township; Roy and Robert of Columbus. Also three sisters and one brother. Mrs. Alice Dille of Circleville, who was her nurse and companion thru her illness; Mrs. Louise Jones of Jackson township, twenty-one grandchildren and one great grandchild, also a host of relatives and friends.

She was converted at the Imber church in her girlhood and was a firm believer in our Lord Jesus Christ.

This little poem is dedicated to her loved ones.

I will meet you at the portal,
Just beyond the starry sky;
I will meet you up in heaven
When we will never say goodbye.

We will meet our blessed Savior
And our loved ones gone before;
We will be forever happy
On the bright Eternal Shore.

Cheer up loved ones, time is passing,
And the day will shortly come,
When we'll leave this world of sorrow
To meet around the throne.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our neighbors and friends for their sympathy and kindness during the illness and at the death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Mary Defenbaugh for her efficient services and the pastor Rev. Dunn for his comforting words.

Carey Kendall and family.

HORROR OF PRISON

An eyewitness account of how the Japanese tortured, starved and sometimes murdered American soldiers who were taken prisoners in the Philippines will be reported by Commander Melvyn H. McCoy, USN, on the March of Time tonight. The program goes on the air over NBC at 9:30.

PENNY LEE SINGS

Penny Lee, who first saw the light of day in Onaga, Nebraska, 23 years ago, will be the gal-of-the-week on the Bob Crosby-Les Tremayne show, Sunday evening at 9:30.

Penny was the featured vocalist with Joe Reichman's orchestra before she decided to devote her time to singing for the men in service and studying nursing.

Right now her proudest possessions are a silver medal designating her a three time donor to the Red Cross Blood Bank, and a Nurse's Aide Certificate awarded after six weeks' intensive training in Los Angeles. Where she used to talk about the number of cities in which she had sung, she now tells of the hospitals in which she has served.

At the age of sixteen Penny was the vocalist with the staff orchestra at WOW, in Omaha. Don Bestor heard her and before long she was touring the east and south. She made her debut with Joe Reichman in New Orleans in 1942.

Bob Crosby and Les Tremayne will join Miss Lee on the weekly slide song in which Bob supplies the baritone background and Les displays his verbal talents. Ever since Les burst out in song, after studying secretly for months, Bob has been driven to the classics and promises to spring some Shakespeare on the audience very soon.

"The Authority on Authorities"

LOW CONTRACTS HARDEST ALL OF THE same devices that help with high contracts are used by the fine player on the low ones. Even greater skill is usually required then, as the cardman must keep track of more different items.

With the strength about evenly divided between the two sides, the small cards are likely to become more important, and consequently the careful card reading of every suit.

Commander McCoy, one of the three who survived the starvation and torture of the Japanese prison camps, and lived to tell of the agony they endured, was taken prisoner at Corregidor and escaped after almost a year from the concentration camp in Luzon.

Donald O'Connor, the young Hollywood movie star with the razor-sharp tongue, will trade quips with Bing Crosby on the Music Hall, Thursday at 8:00 p. m. over NBC. Marilyn Maxwell, former featured songstress with Buddy Rogers and Ted Weems orchestras, and now a rising young actress in the films will be the guest girl singer with Bing.

Nineteen-year-old Donald O'Connor has just finished four new pictures which are to be released soon. They are "Chip Off the Block," "This Is the Life," "Patrick the Great," and "The Merry Monarchs." The latter film young O'Connor will finish up within the next week or so, after which, he expects to join the army.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Latest song to hit for "Hit Parade" rating is "Dear Mr. Crosby," which was introduced for the first time last Thursday on the Bob Burns "Arkansas Traveler" programs by Jimmy Dodd. He's the lad who, on a previous appearance with Burns, premiered his "Sinatra, Stay Away From My Door."

"Lum and Abner," radio's Pine Ridge philosophers, are about to embark on their fifth motion picture. Each of the previous four flickers was a big money maker. Incidentally, their latest release, still playing in key cities, is "So This Is Washington."

Challenge: Frank Novak, maestro on "Hook 'n' Ladder Follies," claims to have a greater mental repertoire of songs than any other bandleader in radio. Novak knows 10,000 tunes and can play the piano 24 hours without repeating a number. That's one for Ripley!

Council Issues Ultimatum On Repair of Grade Crossings.

30 DAY NOTICE TO BE SERVED ON RAILROAD

City To Do Work And Offer Bill For Services To Norfolk & Western

MASON OPPOSES MOVE

Councilman Asserts Line Always Has Met All Local Requests

Unless the Norfolk and Western railroad takes immediate steps to repair its grade crossings through Circleville and to build a sidewalk over its Clinton street crossing, Circleville's service department will do the various jobs necessary and the city will then go into court to collect the amount of money the work cost, plus six percent interest.

This action was started Wednesday evening when council voted an ordinance authorizing Service Director Clarence Helvering to serve notice on the railroad relative to repair of the crossings, which are in terrible condition, and concerning construction of the Clinton street sidewalk.

Under statute, the railroad must start the necessary work within 30 days after receiving notice or the city can do the work and collect through court procedure.

Mason Dissents

The ordinance did not make its way through council without opposition, however, Councilman J. Donald Mason dissenting. All other councilmen favored the action.

Mr. Mason asked why the city should be trying to force the Norfolk and Western railroad to make repairs when that company had through the years done everything that Circleville had asked. "Why jump on the Norfolk and Western?" he asked, "why not the Pennsylvania. That railroad has never done a thing for Circleville."

Mason voted to suspend rules so the ordinance could be tested immediately, but opposed it in the roll call.

Urges Sidewalk

Councilman Boyd Horn, representing the Fourth Ward, has been fighting for a sidewalk over the Clinton street crossing ever since he went into council.

"If you other members of council had children walking across those tracks every day to the Franklin street school, taking a chance on getting hit by automobiles or by trains, you'd raise some hell, too," Horn declared Wednesday night.

Not only is a walk needed on Clinton street, but every crossing in the city is in critical condition. All members of council agree that repairs must be made at the grades.

Mason declared that the Norfolk and Western is doing a splendid job in the war effort, its skeleton crews of workmen doing everything they can to keep the rights-of-ways of the main Scioto division line in condition to haul war goods and troop trains in a continuous string. Mason argued that the railroad does not have the manpower available now to do repair work such as this.

THREE MORE OHIO WITNESSES FACE PRISON TERMS

Three more men claiming to be deferrable from draft because they are Jehovah's Witnesses were convicted Wednesday in Judge Mell G. Underwood's court in Columbus.

Their conviction boosts the total convicted in the last two weeks to 15 Ohioans, all of whom have refused to bear arms.

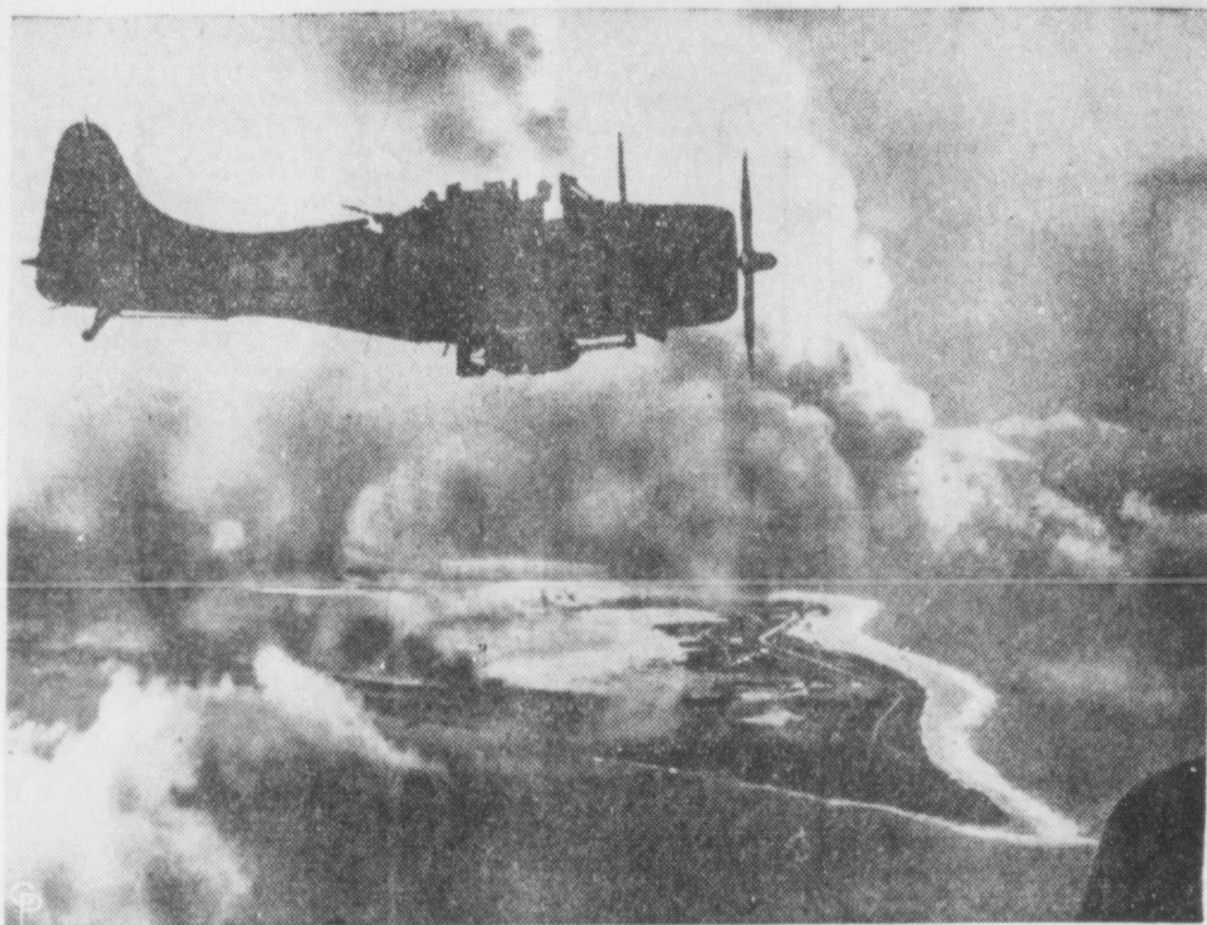

Men convicted include DeCamp W. Davis, 29, Greenfield Route 2, and Frank S. Myers, Jr., 22, Zanesville, Route 4, both of whom refused to report for physical examinations, and William R. Rambo, 22, Zanesville, for failure to report for induction.

Another Witness changed his mind, Judge Underwood was informed, reporting to the court that he had appeared before his draft board, was given physical examination by the army medical team and had failed to pass. Judge Underwood is studying his case.

First three weeks of January have seen sales tax receipts in Pickaway county slide under amounts collected for the same period a year ago.

The total through January 22 was $3,898.56 compared with $4,910.22 a year ago, the reduction being over $1,000, an average of more than $300 a week.

For the week ending January 22 the county put $1,327.38 into the state treasurer's hands, compared with $1,450.41 for the same week a year ago.

The downward trend is prevalent throughout central Ohio with several counties showing reductions in revenues.

A checkup for the period through January 22 shows:

County	1944	1943
Ross	$9,312.14	$10,100.32
Perry	$3,458.77	$3,242.70

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

General Motors, Standard Oil and kindred companies to Europe.

They realized that their first job was to get a free hand from the U. S. Government, and if possible, place themselves just one step behind AMG (Allied Military Government) in liberated areas. Then they could jump right in to rehabilitate factories and re-establish banking connections in the Old World.

Several months ago, Eugene Thomas, head of the Foreign Trade Council, and former vice president of U. S. Steel, picked oil man Jimmy Moffett, friend of the President and former head of Federal Housing, to head the committee formed for this purpose. Thomas felt that Moffett could open doors in Washington, and learn the plans of the State Department and Foreign Economic Administration. The committee consisted of about twenty men who represented practically every American company with investments abroad.

But it wasn't long before Thomas and Moffett tangled. As chairman, Moffett thought he was running the committee. But one day, taking lunch with a committee member, Moffett was shown a confidential memo, nicely prepared with a blue binding.

"What's this?" he asked. "He told it was a memorandum which the committee had agreed on."

Whereupon Moffett offered his resignation. The breach was healed for the time being, and meanwhile, Moffett hired Howard Acton, former public relations director for the Home Loan Bank Administration, to do publicity for the Foreign Trade committee at a salary of $1,000 a month. When Thomas heard about this, he hit the ceiling. Acton resigned.

More friction came when Moffett discovered a sub-committee scouting around Washington, visiting minor officials of the Foreign Economic Administration. Moffett asked them why they didn't go to the top of FEA—to Leo Crowley. They replied that they didn't want to talk to Crowley because this would tip him off to the plans or private industry. So Moffett himself went to see Crowley, laid the committee's plans on the table, and came to a friendly agreement.

Meantime, Thomas complained that Moffett "thinks emotionally", and so Jimmy finally resigned.

Robert F. Loree, vice president of Guaranty Trust Company, was appointed in his place, and is now consulting with Treasury officials about the restoration of private U. S. business in Europe. Executive director of the organization is Edward L. Behr, Jr., son-in-law of Eugene Thomas.

CLARKSBURG GOES OVER TOP IN BOND CAMPAIGN

The village of Clarksburg, not far from the Pickaway county line in Ross county, is the first community in that county to go over the top in its Fourth War Loan campaign.

The splendid teamwork shown in the village in the War Bond campaign drew praise from Ross county drive chiefs.

VICTORY IN '44?

J. B. WOODS: "There will be a lot more boys killed before this thing is over, and it probably will not be over for some time. However, if we take the Marshalls without too great a loss and the Americans, French and British in Italy continue to move forward, Mr. Hirohito and Mr. Hitler will have something to think about. We are on the move. I'll not make a guess just when it will end, but our victory is certain."

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, ing pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty urination and burning and itching passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
